Co-Editor's Message

The theme of this year's yearbook holds true as a question I am sure the entire journalism class was asking throughout the year.

When I first began working on this yearbook, I knew that there would be difficulties. This entire experience helped me improve my skills and allowed me to grow as a whole. This year I was forced to become as organized as I possibly could, trying to balance all of my extracurricular activities and my work schedule. Although I have had no previous experience in yearbook design, I have taken on many leadership roles in the past and the skills I have acquired through those roles have relieved some of the stresses encountered this year. After this year, I know I will be able to take the skills that I have learned and apply them in university.

This year's journalism class has many unique and talented students, and without them this yearbook would not have been completed. Now, like any other company or group, things do not always run smoothly. Often there are times that students feel like taking a break and discussing other issues at hand. However, once deadlines approached, the class kicked it into full gear and got the job done. I am deeply thankful for the outstanding effort you all put into producing this yearbook.

Now the first person I would have to thank is my co-editor and sister, Alessandra Miceli. Many times throughout the year I just wanted to bang my head on a desk in frustration, but you kept me levelheaded and we were able to get the job done. Although we have had our share of arguments, we kept our heads on straight and accomplished the task at hand. I am grateful that you were there when I needed your help most.

Ms. Browne, I thank you for this opportunity for allowing me to become co-editor for this year's yearbook. This experience has been rewarding in more ways than one, and the memories encapsulated in this yearbook will surely be remembered for years to come.

Special thanks to Shawna King for putting in the time to visit us and lending us your ideas in order for us to complete this spectacular yearbook.

This yearbook chronicles the last year and showcases the talents and personalities in the school. I hope that you will cherish the memories stored in this yearbook. Enjoy!

Being a co-editor for this year's yearbook has been both a unique and rewarding experience, but at times could be challenging. Working on this book allowed me to push myself to the limit and gave me an opportunity to work alongside many great people. If it wasn't for this great group of hardworking and goal oriented individuals, the making of this yearbook may have been a lot more challenging then it was, and would not have resulted in such a spectacular product. I would like to thank the entire IDC 4U0 class for all your hard work and dedication in this project. There are also a few more individuals I would like to thank who helped produce this yearbook.

First off, I would like to thank my co-editor and twin brother Antonio Miceli. Thank you for always being there for me. I would have never thought that one day we would take on a project like this together. Even though there were times that we felt like strangling each other, you were always there for me when I needed you the most. Thanks for being patient with me, and for keeping me sane when deadlines approached.

Ms. Browne, thank you for giving me the opportunity to be a co-editor. This opportunity has allowed me to gain many skills and provided me with memories that I will forever cherish. This yearbook would not of been the same if it wasn't for the leadership and guidance you provided our class with, throughout the process.

Shawna King, thank you for sharing your talent with our class and for always having answers when no one else did. Your time and effort towards our yearbook was greatly appreciated. Special thanks also to Holly Murray for helping out this years yearbook by taking the time last year and raisning money to help us. Your help was greatly appreciated.

This years cover was designed by Anne Mendizabal, and shows students turning a corner which demonstrates that we may not know where we are going with our lives, but by flipping the book over we see that the train, which represents life and its lessons, will take us on the right path to get us there. The cover accurately represents this year's yearbook theme, "Are We There yet?"

Students of Port Credit, when you look back at this book years down the road, I hope you will relieve the memories and remember this important part of your life journey.

- Alessandra Miceli

S.A.C. President's Message

Opportunity provides hope, without which life loses meaning. At Port Credit, opportunity lurks around every corner, providing an added dimension to education. When I first came to Port Credit, I chose to ignore opportunities presented to me. My extra-curricular activities consisted of television, and sleep. But over the last four years, I have answered the proverbial door, and have been rewarded beyond measure.

Although I harboured ambitions of making a difference in my initial time here, I never dreamt that I would one day have the ability to follow through on my aspirations. Before last year, I was not even a member of SAC. I had never even imagined being an executive, let alone attending a meeting. Since I joined SAC last year, I couldn't help but get more involved. My interest in Port Credit grew, and so did my desire to help. Hopefully I have managed to make a difference in the school, and to people in general.

None of this would have been possible without the constant encouragement from my family, and the unwavering support of my friends. My job is made easier each day thanks to the executive of the council: Hannah Penn, Kelly Wallace, Robyn Levy, Jessica Mieczkowska, Krystyn Coombs, and Maica Cruz (yes, I'm the only male in an all-female cast). I cannot imagine how frustrating or agonizing SAC meetings and events would have been without you guys. Of course, SAC would not exist without our general members, whose hard work and commitment makes the school the place it is. Thank you Ms. Courtin, Ms. Semler, Ms. Whitmell, and Mr. Habs for your continual support. To the Port Credit staff members who showed me the way, thank you.

The most important of my aspirations is to have made an impact; to inspire people to take every opportunity presented to them, and every door opened for them. And so, I leave you with an old twist on the school motto: "Do not go gentle into that good night.
Rage, against the dying of the light."

ARE WE THERE YET?

High school marks an unforgettable phase in each person's journey through life. From the most naive of grade nine students, to the most mature of the grade twelves, almost every student undergoes a quest of sorts as they progress through high school. The phrase, "Are We There Yet?" echoes these universal sentiments and is fitting as a high school yearbook theme.

"A good traveler has no fixed plans, and is not intent on arriving."

Each year that I am lucky enough to spend at Port Credit, the more I love this place. Each November when our grads come back for commencement, they tell me how much high school meant to them and how much they miss PCSS. I hope you have made the most of your year! We have had the usual intense activity through sports, clubs, assemblies, special celebrations, and your classes of course were always your first priority!

I want to thank Ms. Duzzie-Browne and her journalism class for the exceptional work they do to put your yearbook together. They are a dedicated team and they do a wonderful job for you. Be sure to let them know how much you appreciate their efforts, and tell them "Thanks for the memories!"

Your Student Council has worked hard on your behalf to provide you with another excellent year. Thank you to Vik Somasundaram for his leadership this year and to all the Student Activity Council. Student leaders do so much to keep things running smoothly around here and we love your energy!

This was a special year for PCSS as we welcomed our first SciTech grade 9 students. They are a fantastic group and they have greatly contributed to the school in only one year. These students had to be patient with us as renovations were slow to complete, especially in the shop area. The entire school has benefited from the addition of the Regional SciTech Program. We have received $3.8 million over the past two years to upgrade our school. We have new shops, a new elevator, barrier free washrooms, refurbished Science labs, new windows, brand new auditorium seating, refurbished staff workrooms for Science, Technology, Math and English. Thanks to the dedicated team of teachers that made this program happen, the entire school has benefited in many ways. We look forward to developing the program and to bringing more benefits to all staff and students at PCSS. We will continue to work hard to make SciTech an exciting and challenging program for all those involved.

Students had a few new staff members to get to know this year, as I hired 17 new teachers. They didn't take long to get into the Port Credit spirit and they soon claimed to love it here! These teachers have contributed their hard work and energy to make PCSS an even better place. We also welcomed a new vice principal, Ms. Terry Whitmell. Ms. Whitmell has enjoyed her first year here, getting to know many of you. She and Ms. Semler and I appreciate your cooperation and positive attitude. You may forget to take your hats off in the building once in a while, but I really mean it, Port Credit students are THE BEST and each year you keep getting better!!!

Get out there and enjoy your summer. I hope you have summer jobs that challenge you, cottages to go to, friends to have fun with and fabulous weather to enjoy. See you in September or at commencement. And remember … "May the light never fail!"

REMEMBRANCE DAY

The art council spent weeks preparing for the Remembrance Day Assembly by decorating the hallway.

November 11th. Like drops of blood on the soldiers' uniforms, the scarlet poppies on the collars unified those who swore to never forget. 11 o'clock in the morning. The two-minute silence pounded in our ears, as the names of those who lost their lives raced through our minds. Remembrance Day.

At 11 am on November 11th 1918, after four horrible years of World War I, the silence finally arrived. The moment that many people have waited for was more painful than expected. As the racket of guns stopped and the vehicles' motors froze, people realized that the horrors of war have led to the devastation of civilized societies. The Great War cost countless lives, destroyed families and homes, and left a dark mark in the history of sophisticated countries. A Peace Treaty was signed to prevent any warfare, but soon was broken by the start of World War II in 1939. Korean War, Vietnam War, Persian Gulf War, and other terrible conflicts followed, as well. It seems, as if not many lessons have been learned from the past because wars are still taking thousands of lives in almost every corner of our sinful world. Innocent victims die every minute, adding new names to the never-ending list, titled "Lest We Forget".

At Port Credit, the students attend an annual Remembrance Day assembly in order to commemorate the victims of the war. This year's assembly was one of the best-organized events. Robyn Levy made a touching speech about the life of a war veteran, Captain M.S. "Mac" Smith. Robyn researched the life of a deceased soldier and presented it in Netherlands, at the ceremony commemorating the 60th anniversary of Victory in Europe Day. While helping to raise the public awareness about the remembrance day, she also unveiled a meaningful message: If it wasn't for the soldiers who bravely fought for the freedom decades ago, we wouldn't live in a peaceful country today.

NTERNATIONAL MUSIC DAY!

Every year at Port Credit, music council puts on a concert to benefit a local charity.This years concert took place on October 14, 2005 and the proceeds went to support the Hurricane relief effort. This year a variety of performers came out from a flute and piano duet, to bollywood dancing, to a guitar duet. All money earned was donated to the red cross for the hurricane victims. Alot of hard work and dedication was put into organizing this concert. After the concert the music still continued. Many other performers agreed to play in the play-a-thon, where music filled the halls. To conclude the day, the intermediate strings class went into the main foyer and played the fast paced song Furiosso. Besides the money donated during the assembly, other actvities that were held included a couple bake sales. Overall, International Music Day was well worth the time and effort.

Port Credit Kids In Training!

One of the senior level Health and Physical education courses offered at Port Credit is Exercise Science (PSE 4U0), but mostly known as Kinesiology by the students. Although this course is under the Phys.Ed department, none of the classes actually take place within the gymnasium walls, but in a class room setting. This course allows the students to gain knowledge of what contributes to everyday human movement and different stages of human development. There is also a variety of trips that the Kin students go on.

The first trip taken this year was to Wilfred Laurier University in Waterloo. On this trip, students learned about the Kin program offered at the university level. As well, the kin students got to meet students from other schools taking the same course. The day was spent by everyone participating in many different tasks and activities.

Another trip that the students were involved in was held was at the University Of Waterloo. This was more of a informative trip that literally allowed them to get hands on experience with different activities and workshops.While in Waterloo, one of the activites that they paricipated in was to see what happens when one of their senses were taken away. For example with their sight. While blind folded students had to make their way through the maze by feeling their way around.

One more recent trip was to the science center to see Body Worlds 2 . This trip allowed the students to take their classroom knowledge and apply it to what they saw. Instead of just seeing the muscles in the text book they were able to look at them close up and see what they've learned.

Sadie Hawkins Dance: "Get Your Freak On!"

The annual Sadie Hawkins dance was held the Friday before Halloween. As 7p.m. veared closer, Spiderman, Wilma, ghosts and goblins all began their night at the dance.

The Sadie Hawkins dance is held year after year by the Athletic Council, and this year was no exception. The old favorites that make each year a tradition were brought back to make this year a success. Some of these favorites included the marriage booth and just good old-fashion fun. The dance was tonnes of fun, there were just minor glitches that Athletic Council had wished never happened.

The fun started with the theme, "Get Your Freak On." The theme was created to try and encourage students to wear their "freaky" costumes and have a great time. There was a great range of funky costumes thanks to the spirit inside the students of Port Credit. Athletic Council atributes the awesome turn-out to the many members who dedicated their lunchtimes to make posters and sell tickets to make this dance a success. Thanks to the council and the students at P.C. for another successful year.

PCSS Has Talent!

Port Credit shows off its skills in Master Lunch!

With the help of Port Credit's Drama Council, each year the students of PCSS get to show off their skills in a half hour show. Every year new talent comes forth and proves just how great the students at Port Credit are. This last year in particular was home to some of the most memorable acts of all time. We've been introduced to many different cultural dancing, all types of Drama, and we can't forget the singing. But overall the most important thing we've learned this year is that anyone can dance! Thanks to the PC Boy Band consisting of Danny Kim (top left), David Chiou (top right) and Jack Tran (centre) who shocked us all with their rendition of the Backstreet Boys and Cindy Lauper.

Dignity And Respect Everywhere is something the new grade nines at Port Credit have learned a lot about. D.A.R.E., the new bullying action plan, has been adopted by Port Credit to ensure a safe and enjoyable school environment.

Grade nine students spent the day at Erindale Park, or Jack Smythe Field Centre in September learning to work together. It was a great opportunity for students and teachers to interact outside the classroom. Students learned how to respect each other through games and adopted a D.A.R.E. attitude. They participated in team building activities and found hidden talents within themselves. This new creative process of informing grade nine students of bullying in the school has proved to be much more effective than the traditional guest speakers and assemblies.

Thank you to all the dedicated staff members and senior students who made our first annual D.A.R.E. Day a success!

It's Just The Beginning

On November 4th, the Port Credit class of 2005 took part in the annual commencement ceremony here at P.C. The graduates gathered from all over Ontario and enjoyed seeing former classmates. For many, it was the first time they had seen each other since June. Every year, the ceremony is held in early November and special achievement awards and diploma's are awarded to students. The traditional graduation cap and gowns were introduced just last year. The caps and gowns add a special touch and made the ceremony look professional. Wearing the gowns, really is a reality check to students that high school is over. The next time the class of 2005 will potentially be all together again will be their ten-year high school reunion.

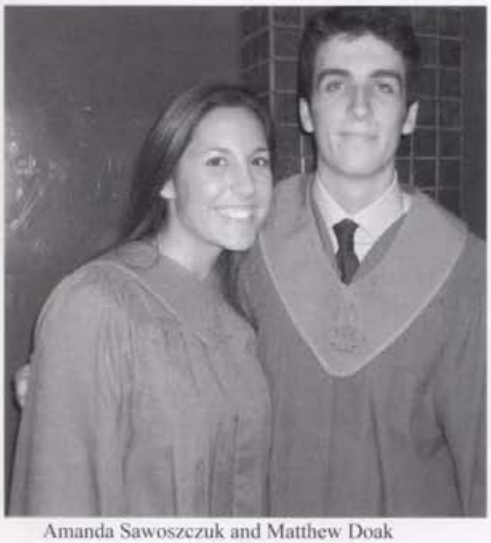
Mrs. Courtin and graduating girls



Amanda Sawoszczuk and Matthew Doak

Commencement is not only a ceremony, but also a time for students to reflect and share high school memories and experiences. It is also a time to catch up on current events about their new lives outside high school. An exceptional former student, Matthew Doak exclaimed "it was great to come back to Port Credit, reminisce, and bring closure to our awesome high school experience." Commencement was a real eye opener for this year's grade twelve's. Realizing that in a few months our lives will drastically change is surreal. Those of us who depend on our parents to do virtually everything for us, have realized that they must fend for themselves if they go away to school. Most of the grade twelve's wish there was OAC, because none of us are ready for our high school experience to end. The twelve's will mature over the next year and realize eventually it is time to move on. Good luck to all the graduates in whatever they pursue. May success and happiness follow them through the future.

At the Head of the Class

Sweta Patel embodied the spirit of Port Credit and was voted as valedictorian for the class of 2005. The following is an excerpt from her valedictory address, which brought the graduates to the brink of tears.

"We have laughed and cried together, and now it is time for us to move on, and although Port Credit may now only become the name of your high school on job applications and resumes, or a building that you may pass by, I want you all to take the time and experiences you have had here with you and remember each and every moment you have had here. And as Dr. Seuss says "You have brains in your head. You have feet in your shoes. You can steer yourself in any direction you choose. You're on your own. And you know what- you know. You are the guy who'll decide where to go." That holds true no matter how far we advance in life, but that quote has been so over done. So instead I want to leave you with something that we can all relate to, CHOCOLATES! As Forrest Gump said, "Life is like a box of chocolates. You never know what you're gonna get." So I say…eat as many as you can! So go out there and do what you want because we will find our right to be... until then, lilacs bloom every spring. I really don't know what that means but I have no doubt in my mind that there isn't anyone sitting here today who can't achieve what they want to achieve."

Aids/HIV Awareness in Peel

In Peel 600 people are infected with HIV/AIDS and one third of all cases are people who unknowingly transmitted the virus in their teens. The scary part is most people know so little about HIV/AIDS that this preventable virus is still being spread. On October 26th 2005 a select number of students from participating schools in Peel attended the Peel Board of Educations third annual Aids Awareness day. Student teacher Mr. Sayer accompanied student representatives, Lily Roll, Hannah Penn, Robyn

MYTHS on AIDS

- This is a disease that only effects Gays and drug users.
- You can tell someone has aids just by looking at them.

TRUTHS on AIDS

- A person who is infected with HIV may not show symptoms for 2 to 10 years.
- It can be treated but only if you know you have it.
- HIV is not fatal, but ignoarance can be.
- HIV does not occur in a healthy body.
- There are antiretrovial drugs to help keep infected people healthy.

Top 5 Films of 2005

5. BROKEBACK MOUNTAIN

"Gay cowboy movie?" Tender, dignified, and with incredible depth, with award worthy performances by both Jake Gyllenhaal and Heath Ledger. Quietly powerful, and,as an added bonus, more CanCon, as the fantastic scenery of Alberta (filling in for Wyoming) fills the background.

4. MUNICH

Steven Spielberg's best film. A suprisingly restrained drama-thillers from a man more known for broad emotional strokes and technological wonder. Fearless in the stances it takes regarding the roots of the Middle East conflict, not easy to watch, but worth watching, certainly.

3. SYRIANA

A weaving, manipulative film, in which no one, not the audience, not the characters on screen, knows fully what is going on. Interesting parallels can be drawn between this film's oil trade and the drug trade in Traffic, both written by the director of this film.

2. GOOD NIGHT AND GOOD LUCK

A powerful blast at paranoia and the role of the media in American political life, past and present. The so-called McCarthy Era is brought to life with convincing acting, directing, set, costume, and music. Not a single thing about this film doesn't work.

1. GRIZZLY MAN

Werner Herzog's track record is untouched in the history of filmaking.A heart moving take on grizzly bear activist Timothy Treadwell, who was killed in October of 2003 while living among grizzlies in Alaska for 13 summers. The year's best, hands down.

You Had Me At Hello

High School Sweethearts

Throughout the years we develop all different kinds of relationships. But the ones that are the most precious to us, are the ones that we develop with those who grow to love and care for us.
During these challenging years that we spend in high school knowing that, that certain someone special will always be there for you, can make all the difference in the world. And although we move on and grow apart, we will always have the memories.

Planning for the Future...

During the first weekend of October, the University Fair was held at the Metro Toronto Convention Center. This is an event where high school students of any age can attend, to become familiar with the various universities around Ontario. Having very few years to decide, it puts an immense amount of pressure on students to rush plans for the future at a young age. Wherever we go in life, we will all be successful if we work hard at what we choose to do. University and college is a big step for every one of us. High school prepares us for our future, but the teachers here at Port Credit can only do so much. The rest is up to us. As said by Ben Stein, "The first step to getting the things you want out of life is this: Decide what you want."

...The Early Years

Pictures By: Stephanie Howell

This is where Ontario Early Years Centres can help. Because we know that the first six years of a child's life are so important, the centre will help support, and ensure your child gets a great start. This program is also a good opportunity for the Port Credit students to get involved with their community as it is where many students also volunteer to interact with the children.

Portfolio Day at OCAD:
Passion and Training

Long lines. Art portfolios. Aspiring artists. Shocked and inspired faces. Passion and training.

National Portfolio Days are held to prepare and acquaint young artists with art school representatives and vice versa. It is not held for admission. This year, NPD was held at OCAD (Ontario College of Art & Design) on the 20th of November.

The four-hour event was held for artists to have their portfolios reviewed and critiqued by art school representatives. Portfolios can include personal pieces, works in progress, and sketchbooks. Representatives from OCAD, Ryerson University, York University, Sheridan College and some US art colleges were present.

The doors were open at 11:45 am, but the lines outside the school started to file two to three hours earlier. The atmosphere was intense yet exciting.

Lisa Troutanova, a PC student, pointed out that "I felt like it was unfair that we all had to prove ourselves to the representatives... everyone's artwork is good in its own way." On the other hand, Khushbo Karimi "attended to hear feedback" and swallowed each and every piece of compliment and criticism. The representatives complimented, criticized, and gave advices on improving one's portfolio. The quality of one's portfolio can determine an artist's admittance to a school, along with the academic grades, of course.

The competition between the students are intense. One would sit in one corner and would start sketching people waiting in line or talking with others. You can almost feel that the person in the line behind you could be taking your spot at the school you are applying for. Or that the person sketching your legs is considered for admittance.

instead of you.
Passion vs. training: is our passion for art enough to get us into an art school, or are the preparation and training are as important? As artists, are we willing to be trained in order to pursue our dreams? The representatives stressed so hard that the representation (in a sketchbook) of an art work's process is as important as the final piece. So, was it worth the time waiting in line for one to two hours for a 10-15-minute interview? Or did the four-hour process give you a different view at the world of art and your position in it?

What We Eat

Mohsen Zohori, now a grade 11 student, suggested, "If the school is not capable of banning the vending machines that contain junk food, the school board can at least try and stop selling fries, apple crisp, and what not from the food cafeteria. It offers us students even more unhealthy food than we call for." Some students, if not all, argue that Port Credit will certainly stop selling junk food to its students before things get out of control, and teachers certainly agree.

"Sometimes we think about going healthier, but most just go more for what tastes good." -- admits Safa K.

RENOVATIONS `05

Year 2005 was one of the biggest renovation years for Port Credit Secondary School. Our school being one of the oldest schools in GTA received extensive renovations during the summer of 2005 towards the beginning of the school year.

The Sci –Tech program which focuses on the science and technology courses needed these renovations for a promised success. The four new science labs along with other renovations and updated facilities were installed with the $3.1 million that the Peel District School Board provided. The new labs include new counter-tops and sinks, and new equipments needed for any science lab.

This long project created excitement and frowns. Irfaan Emamdee, a senior student who liked to "kick it old school" liked the "old labs, even though they had humongous black desks." No doubt, he is grateful for the new computer in our library, still.

With the new renovations and new facilities, our Sci-Tech program not only looks promising in the future, but so does Port Credit Secondary School as well.

Regional Strings

The strings program at Port Credit Secondary School is a very special and unique program that offers many people the chance to get involved in basically anything and everything that music is involved with.

The regional strings program has been a part of Port Credit for eight years and is still going strong. Some of the programs that are involved with the program is beginner strings, intermediate strings, and chamber strings. Through all of these levels of ability it offers a unique experience for all.

Orchestra is another part of the strings program. It is a mandatory expectation that all strings students in intermediate and chamber strings attend. Orchestra meets every Tuesday after school until 4pm. This years orchestra is one of the largest that Port Credit has had. The orchestra performs at a variety of events. They participate in music concerts, play for feeder schools, host a strings workshop and recently travelled to New York to play a couple of concerts while visiting. Last year, the orchestra traveled to Montreal, where they performed a variety of pieces to an elementary school and an old age facility.

Chamber strings is a unique part of the strings program. This program is selective and exclusive to Port Credit. To enroll in the chamber program, you must play a exam. The chamber course offers students a lot more out of school, and offers them a lot more experience and opportunities. Every couple of years, the chamber students get the unique experience to travel to Vienna so that they learn about early musicians and enhance their learning about classical music. Chamber students participate in more performances, for example at the Living Arts Center and at Peél Board receptions. Coaches are brought in to assist students with the beautiful music that they play. The coaches offer unique guidance and one- on-one support.

The strings program offers students the chance to play four different instruments: Violin, Viola, Cello, and Bass. Students are welcomed to join in at any level. The beginner strings class offers students the opportunity to join in at any experience level. There are students in the class that have no previous musical experience that play at the same level as the students with previous experience.

All in all, the strings program at Port Credit is an exceptional program that will open up many doors with trips, excursions, and performances. The memories that you make in the program will last you a lifetime!

Co-op: Another Way to go to school

By Claire Bridges

-planning your career-

All photo's taken by Claire Bridges

If you are a grade 11 or 12 student, you should consider co-op (co-operative education) as an option. Think about it, one day you are in school, the next at co-op doing something you love. Every year Mrs. Kirkconnell and Mrs. Sorenson bring something new to the classroom to keep students interested in career options and prepare them for the future. Through the many in-school workshops and guest speakers, co-op is a great tool to help you create a lasting impression on employers.

Co-op is a great way for students to get a basic-hand knowledge on a career that they may want to enter. You can go to the workplace and learn the basics about the field and after your placement you then have the knowledge whether to commit, or to choose another path of career.

The bonus is! LESS HOMEWORK! If by any chance you are unhappy with your workplace, that's no problem! The co-op teachers will work for you to make sure that you are happy and safe at work.

Angela Vincent (right) demonstrated her massage skills which she learned at the Sutherland Chan Massage Therapy School. Angela learns about massage and then performs for her friends and family.

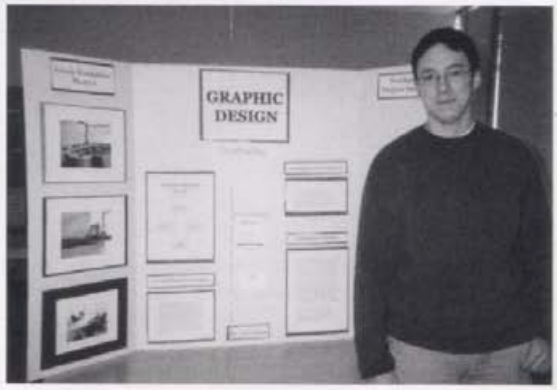
Jennifer Nuttall (above) works at Cawthra Gardens, a retirement home. She helps the patients to play bingo and attend their excercise classes.



Neil Walsh (right) works for a graphic design company producing various projects.

Each student chooses a career path that they want to end up in and both co-op teachers will set up an interview and orientation for you. If you are unsure of what you would like to do when you are older, that's no problem! Mrs. Kirkconnell and Mrs. Sorenson have a career quiz for you which will help you to decide what suits your personality best.
Students that choose co-op can work in a variety of different places such as; Lawyer's office, retirement home, construction company, funeral home, news or radio stations, restaurants, stores in malls and much, much more. If you think that co-op is for you, go and talk to the teachers and see if you can get into where you want to be in life.

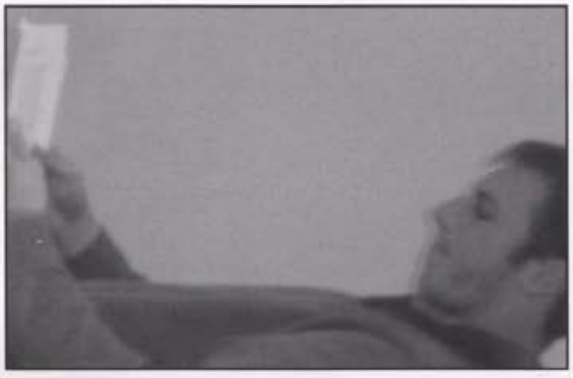
Journalism

The people who brought you this wonderful yearbook



Journalism is not a class for the weak. Meeting deadlines and learning the ropes of public relations are at the core of this class.

The work was not what many of us expected, looking forward to a year filled with trivial article writing and bad photography; were we ever wrong. It is no wonder Mrs. Duzzie-Browne is fighting to make IDC a recognized senior english. Throughout the year, you look at the Elements of Journalism, in order to serve the public as an objective, truth-seeking journalist. After you learn to approach the task of effective journalism, you apply it by writing articles - many articles - for the Port Critic, the yearbook and your own interest. All of that only consists of half the year.

An ultimate test of your time management skills, the yearbook depends on the Journalism class's ability to pull our school together into a collage of pictures, articles and icons of the school and create a yearbook that is representitive of the whole student body.

No meager task. But if you think you are up to it IDC will teach you to look at the world through a journalists eyes.

TEAM 10

Run by David Hicks, Team 10 is one of the classes that most students know the least about. This is a program for the developmentally challenged high school students between the ages of 14 - 18.

Students come to Port Credit with a number of needs; some need basic academic skill development like learning to read, write, and do arithmetic; others need help with socialization skills and dealing with day to day interactions with other people; still others have violent behaivor that needs to be modified.

The goal of this program is for these students to intergrate into the community with dignity successfully.

What most students don't know about this class is when they turn 18 and leave Port Credit, they go to Applewood Acres for two more years.

With the help of their teachers and the school enviroment the Team 10 program helps developmentally challenged students become more independent, able to develop social skills and connect to everyday life.

PAD 400 Leadership Class

Each PAD 200 and 400 student brings unique qualities and talents to the course. All are chosen individually based on school marks, completion of a swim test and an admirable teacher recommendation. This course is one of a kind leaving both teachers and students with new friendships and the opportunity to take away something truly unique and memorable Over the course of the year, the two classes will cover units ranging from golf to curling and squash to kayak polo.

This course offers many oppourtunities to develop and present leadership skills. Students are required to complete 30 hours of community service, teach their class a chosen sport, and teach grade 9 students basic first aid and CPR.

Peer Mentors

This year's peer mentor class is made up of devoted and hard-working senior students. A selected group of senior students is chosen each year to help with a junior class. It takes a special person to be a peer mentor, and this year these students have what it takes. Each student possesses strong leadership capability that grows throughout the year. As peer mentors these students go to junior classes, help students and also assist the teacher. They play a prominent role in class, and the students look forward to their peer mentor coming to class. Often it is easier for students to relate to another student rather than the teacher. Peer mentors help to make junior students' first couple of years at Port Credit easier and more enjoyable. The peer mentors don't just help the students with homework and questions, but by the end of the year they have formulated a friendship with them. Peer-mentors facilitate students' journey through high school, and make success more easily attainable.

This communications technology program gives the students who take it first-hand experience using high-tech devices from the real world. This course includes numerous aspects of communication technology, such as radio broadcasting, video editing, video recording, print media/computer lab, and state-of-the-art photographic studio. The course also teaches students how to use Corel Draw, various audio-recording programs, and other forms of media. Students enjoy the course and know that it will prepare them for careers in live, recorded, electronic, and graphic communications for possible future careers.

The Dawn of an Era: SciTech at PC

Below: Gabriel Morettin let the sparks fly.

With the approval of a new regional program last year, Port Credit is redefining its image and drawing students from all over the Peel region. Some students like Kevin Hoddinott travel all the way from Brampton. The new program, aptly named 'Sci-Tech' is a one-of-its-kind program that focuses on science and technology courses and prepares students in the program for a career in one of the fields. Principal Jan Courtin feels that "the creation of the Sci-Tech program will have a ripple effect throughout the Port Credit community." With partnerships being established between the school and universities and other post-secondary destinations, the future looks bright for Sci-Tech and for Port Credit Secondary School.

Melee with Michaud

Yearbook: I remember when you first started teaching at Port Credit, and you began working on SciTech. Being in your Business class, we heard a lot of your ideas, and they were really great. Where did you get the inspiration to spearhead the development of such a program?
Michaud: When I started teaching, I didn't like the way we taught kids. A lot of the equipment was way too old. We needed to teach students current skills, and the skills to work on new equipment. That's how the idea for SciTech developed.

Yearbook: What difficulties did you face in getting board approval and the support of the school?
Michaud: One of the first challenges was finding people who believed that this was worthwhile and that this was the right thing to do. Now the difficulties are finding money and resurces to support the program, and partnerships to develop it. As the program evolves, the challenges change. The construction in the school was a big challenge this year, and had a lot of people involved with trying to make things work. Initially the challenge was just finding people who were willing to work at it and be a part of SciTech.

Yearbook: How do you go about spreading the word about SciTech and drawing attention to Port Credit?
Michaud: Well, we do a lot of marketing and networking, like going to different schools. We also go to businesses and colleges and universities, and we talk to industry. We've also been using the media a little. We've had a couple of articles in the Mississauga Business Times and Ms. Courtin has been published in a trade magazine. We're trying to do different things. Right now, we even have a parent council starting up to help us out with things.

Mr. Michaud demonstrates the proper use of machinery to Mackenzie Galway and Paul Murray.

Yearbook: How do you think the program is going so far?
Michaud: You know what, it's been a lot harder of a start than I thought it would have been. We were low on money, construction was in trouble, lack of equipment; things were not going very smoothly. If this was a business, we would have been finished. They couldn't survive if they had the problems we did. The great thing is our students, who have been amazing and our amazing staff have kept the program going. Now, things are begining to fall into place. The construction is just about finished and the equipment is almost all in place. As time goes by, things should get better.

Yearbook: What are your plans for the future?
Michaud: Right now we are working on the curriculum for grades 11 and 12. We're looking at going into more robotics, more pneumatics, and more high-end areas like welding, machine shop and manufacturing. Another thing we want to do is network with industry and provide more co-op opportunities to our students. The cornerstone of the program is hands-on skills, and building them in students. So we want to look at getting into robotics competitions, and to enter Skills Canada, that sort of thing. That's the direction we are heading in.

Yearbook: Alright, thank you very much for your time.
Michaud: No problem.

Lights, Camera, Action!

Filming will take place today. The kids know it. The process has been a slow one, but on this day, the camera's are getting taken out. "I'm so hyped for this', proclaims Tyler Hewitt, Grade 12. "I love making movies, you get such a rush from doing shots from crazy angles and the like." Well, hold on Tyler! Using the camera may be fun, but that's not all Film Arts is!

The best way to learn concepts of film is by watching them in action, and this year did not disapoint. This year in Film Arts, students saw a wide variety of films, including the Canadian made Atom Egoyan thiller Exotica, Wim Wenders documentaries Buena Vista Social Club, and Cities and Clothes, about an aging Cuban musical group, and and an examinatation of modernism, respectively. Francis Ford Coppola's drama Rumble Fish was also a favourite among the students. "It's important to watch a variety of films in this course,' explans Taj Nabhani, "We need to learn as much as we can about making filmss in alternative styles."

Students really enjoy the atmosphere that Film Arts provides. Much of this is attributed to the ever popular Mr. Calimente, the "loveable scamp" who teaches the course. Approaching the course with a solid background in the arts, "Mr. Calimente is highly competent, and I trust his authority as a teacher', pledges Palmer Jarvis. "Really, the reason this course is so attractive as an option is because of his teaching style."

"You hear a lot of interesting things in this class, you know.', says Angela Oussovitch wistfully, "Stuff like, 'Who has the good camera?' 'Should I do a long shot or close-up?' 'WHAT DO YOU MEAN YOU FORGOT TO TAKE THE LENS CAP OFF?!?!??!', it's pretty cool stuff."

Scott Ellis sets up his camera carefully. "You always have to be mindful of proper camera safety, other wise you could ruin your film." Sage advice, as Scott prepares a low angle medium close-up.

Film Arts isn't just any other course, it's all it's own. Unlike other courses, Film Arts has a an actual practical exam, ultimately testing the abilities of the students to make an entertaining, and technically correct film. It's something many students apprieciate. "I'm going to miss this course, you know,' waxes William Norman. "It's really something."

We kill a part of humanity every time we underestimate the value of art. We bury a fraction of ourselves that yearns to learn, to explore. Art vs. Science. The conflict. How many times have we belittled the value of a 91% in Art, while an 86% in a Science class proves one is smart? How long will we continue to underestimate the value of art?
Ms. Urquhart's Media Arts classes (Grade 10-12) focus on developing students' artistic skills and knowledge. These courses allow students to translate these factors into works of art using the computer and its software (Adobe Photoshop®, Adobe Illustrator®) as the main media.
Media Arts classes represent the relationship of the Arts and Science and Technology. This area of studies gives way to appreciate the value of our artistic skills and knowledge using non-traditional media.
These classes most importantly help students to build up and develop their portfolios for Post-Secondary schools. As we settle in this modern world, the battle between Art and Science should end. The lack of appreciation for the values of both parties, not just for art, projects that we are limiting our knowledge and imagination. Let us stop this lack of appreciation, for the love of art, of knowledge, and of life.

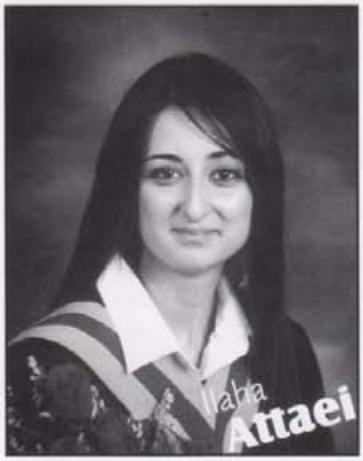
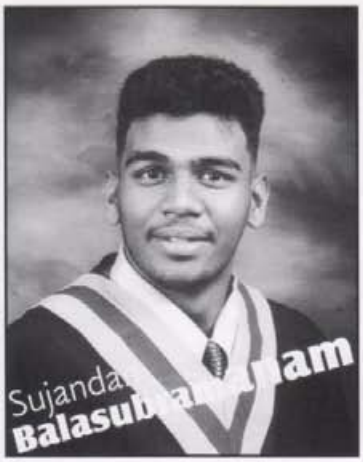
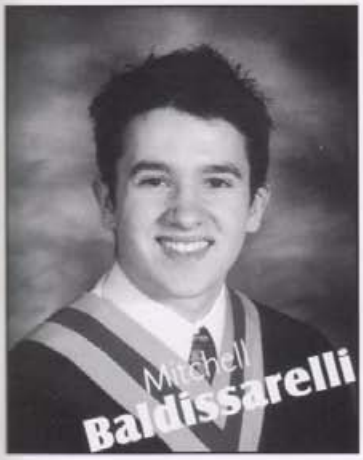
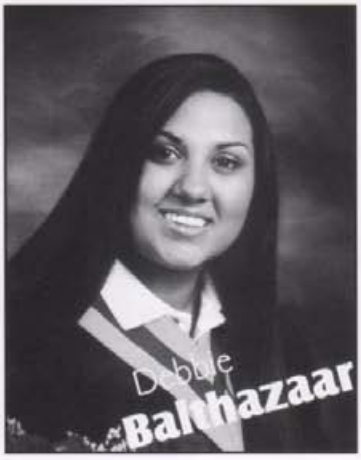
2much,2soon,2little,2late it's finally time to say good bye. My 3years at P.C. were filled with great moments that I will never 4get. Thanks to my family for always being there 4me & my friends especially Sarah,khu shi,Hos,Zor,Zofi,Naz,& the others. I thank God 4giving me strength, and patience to get through these years. I'll never 4get(the secrets,the laughters,parties/movies,spares). And no matter where life takes me, P.C will always be in my heart.

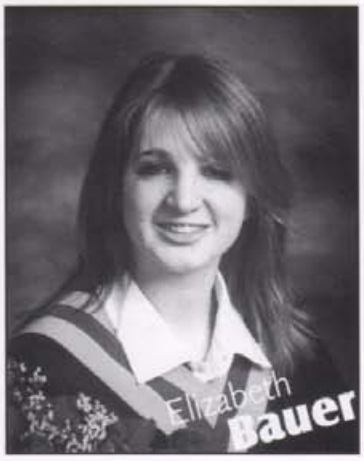
Love always Ilaha





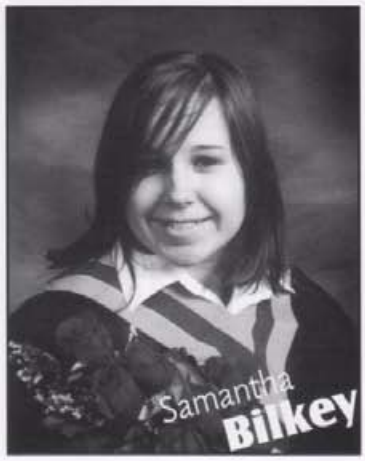


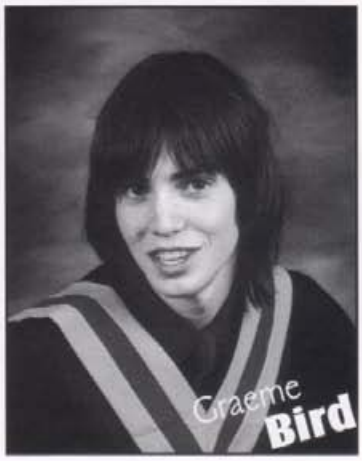


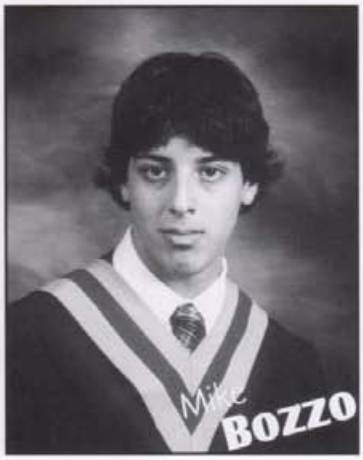


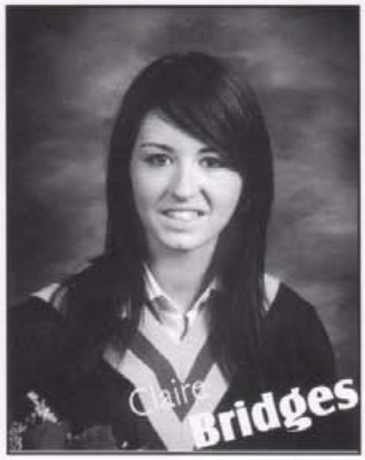
Where to start, thanks for all the good times PC –Quebec (Eayden has J!Feeks), Europe, Tim's. All the great parties and all the not so good ones…I will try to forget the bad ones. Everyone over the passed four years – Suzey, Jelly, George, Steph H., Steph S. (Pink Elephant), Mandy, Lara (Love you!), and everyone else I forgot. To all my teachers, I wouldn't have gotten here without any of you, honorable mention goes to Ms. Fullerton and Mr. Cossette, I can't thank you enough. Bye guys.

One love... <3









Four fast years and it's over, THANK GOD! I want to thank my family especially my brother and sister for guiding me through. Also a HUGE thank you to Jenn and her family for giving me my strength when I was weak. RUMS THANK YOU SO MUCH, I owe you at least two years of my life for all of your support, pain and sweat that you have put into molding me. I love you all and wish everyone a happy and successful future. Maybe you'll see me on the news sometime soon! UP YER KILT! CYMRU! R.I.P.

In this place of structure we follow the motions continuing along paths our predecessors made out. Very few ever stop and look around " They tell you not to hang around and learn what life's about and growing up just like them, so full of doubt." I'm glad at the end of this act that I stopped to stare seeing what's truly important, It was more than I could have earned in school. It was with strider, Dead-eye, Iron Brawler, Leash and Mr.President that I found it. Friends to remember always.

Though I'm staying behind, it still feels like the final year, the end of the road. I've learned a lot this year, not just in class but about myself as well. We had some good times and lots of laughs, you all know who you are. Now after all this, we have to move on... Know that I'll remember the times here at PC. I'll miss everyone that I knew here and I wish you the best, wherever life may take you. Never forget to take it easy or what life means to you. Until we meet again... see you on the other side.

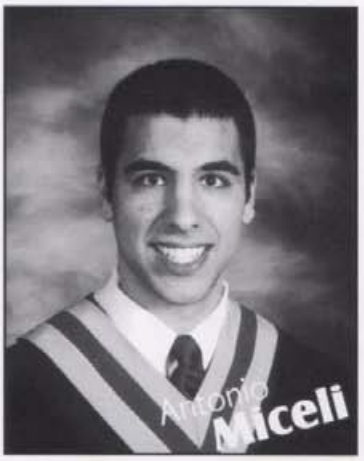
Mom & Dad thnax for your love and support. Anthony, thanx for helping me on all those last minute assignments. Ash, your like the sister I never had. Thanks for being there all these years. To all my friends and teachers, if it wasn't for you, life at P.C wouldn't have been as enjoyable or successful. To the grads of P.C, as William Arthur Ward once said: "If you can imagine it, you can achieve it; if you can dream, it you can become it." Congrats grads of 2006 and good luck future grads of P.C



I first want to thank my family for supporting me through all the good time and rough times. You were there when I need you most. You helped me become who I am today. Adam and Mitch, after 12 years, the time is up for us to split. I'll miss you guys and I hope we can stay in touch. Everyone else, you KNOW who you are! It's the end of one era, and the beginning of another. To every grad: always strive to be the best, settle for nothing less. Good luck to all! This journey has just begun…

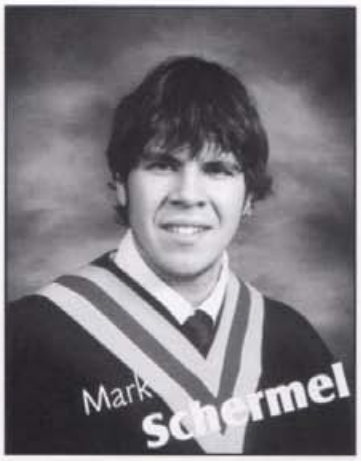
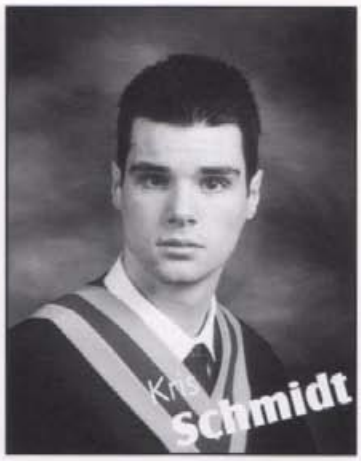
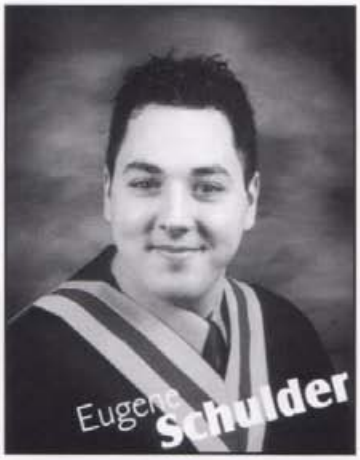
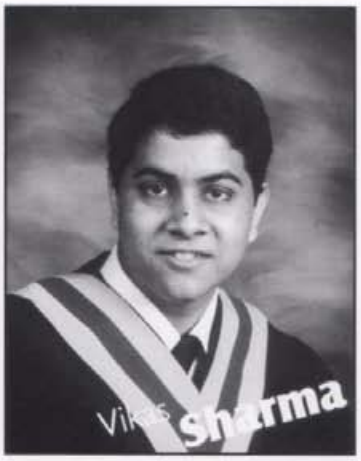
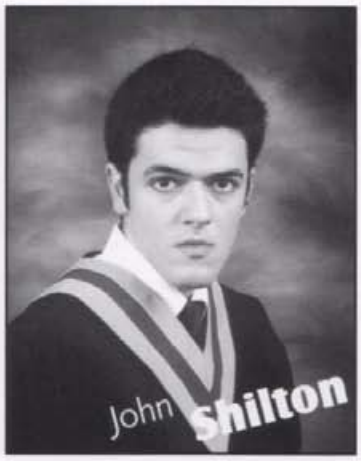
PC WHAT! Alright kids. the last 4 yrs have been sick, between the 4AL canoe trip, wrestling, semi, locker boxing, football and way more I'll never forget these past years. To all my boys, Big Crox, MikeyC,littleTmckee,RobD, Tran JC and Fitz..you're my BOY!..kind of..and all the rest. And of course all the girls. I've gotten enough injuries and concussions with you guys, and i wouldn't change a thing, though I'm sure the fun isnt over yet. But I wish everyone the best in the upcoming years.
TO INFINITY N BEYOND

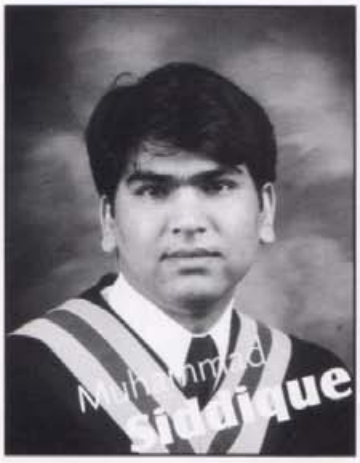


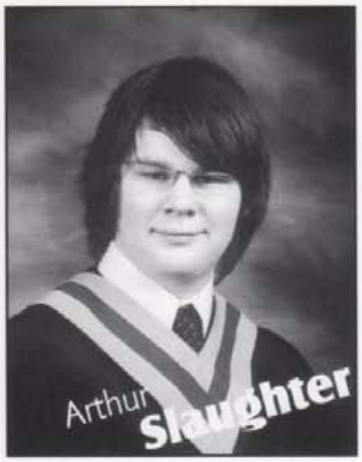


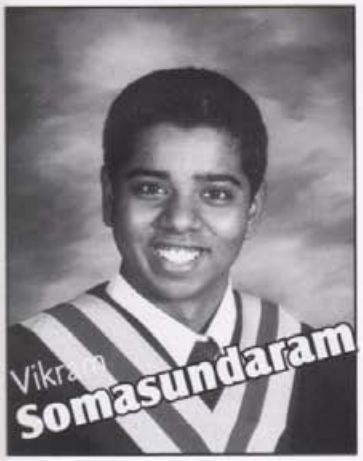




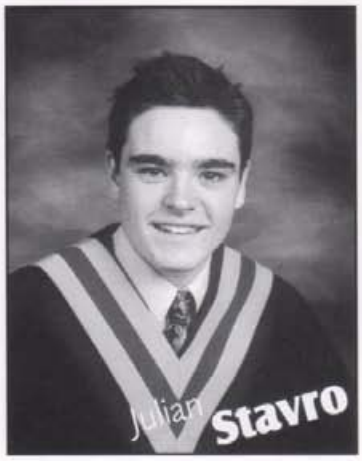


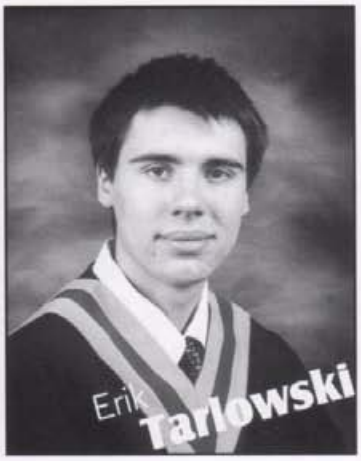




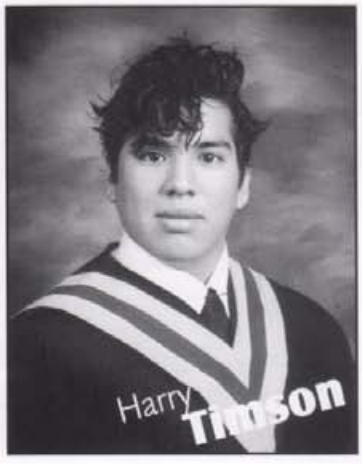


to all my teachers and my parents, you HAVE made a difference. I am what I am because of your influences. I truly am grateful to my friends who've stuck with me over the years. Too many to name, too few to forget; thank you all. For everymemory made, and every moment immortalized, there will be another just as sweet somewhere down this journey through life. Strive to excel PC, and never giveup. Cheers.





Time has gone by so fast. I've done the time,we all have. I'm proud of Drama Council,that has been an amazing council.Many thanks to Improv Team, you're all real "hoot",and of course stories, I could not have ended my Dramatic Career on a better note. All in all, our generation of the crazy "88's will certainly not be forgotten at PC. As my character Marshall says,in seven songs,"lives are just short little episodes". You're on then you're off. Just like that. Which reminds me. I'm off".



Throughout my years at PC I have had so many great times and I have met so many great people. I can't believe it's already coming to an end. Thanks to my family for everything you have given me. I love you. Thanks to my friends for always being there for me. We've had so many great times I'll never forget. And Daryl, Thank you for being in my life. You mean everything to me. Elephant shoe!

Greece and Rome Excursion 2005

On June 30th 2005, Mr. Habs, Ashley Lake, Vanessa Wheale, Chris Dennis and myself, Elizabeth Bauer set off to Italy and Greece. The trip was 10 days long and organized to experience the different cultures of the Ancient Italians and Greeks. For some, this was the longest and farthest we have ever been without "mommy and daddy," but it was an opportunity worth pursuing. We landed in Milan, Italy, and the moment we stepped out of the airport we already knew this was going to be a lot more then we ever expected. All of the sites were breathtaking, the Coliseum shocked all of us, remember the movie Gladiator? From Milan, we continued on to Florence, which is famous for its gold and its leather. We were only in Florence for 2 nights, but our next stop was going to the most memorable. We made our way to Rome the next day. Our last stop in Italy was Sorrento, which had probably one of the most exciting activities that we had planned for the trip. We visited the Blue Grotto, which is a cave that glows blue, it is only accessible by boat and it is on the coast of Capri, a small island. The next day, we took the coach bus to Pompeii, where we saw the remains of the buried city. From Pompeii , it was time to say goodbye to Italy, we had our overnight cruise to Greece.

The cruise was one big party, the ship was filled with hundreds of students from all over the world. The Port Credit students spent most of the day sitting on the deck relaxing. The next day, we arrived in Greece, and it was completely different from Italy. While staying in Delphi, we visited the Temple of Apollo, and also the Delphi Oracle, where the ancient Greeks went to ask about their future. From Delphi, we continued to Athens, which was our last stop before heading back home. Although this trip was only 10 days long, it gave every student an idea of how travelling is. Each one of us can pick out our favorite place that we visited, and we have each developed a new passion for travelling.

QUEBEC CITY 06

The morning of December 28th marked the beginning of a 4 night nonstop party for 48 grade 12 students in Quebec City. The bus ride up was long, with anxious teenagers getting pumped up for the wild nights to come. The bottom floor of the hotel Frontenac was ours, and each student got an average of 6 hours of sleep the whole trip. Breakaway tours were the trip organizers, who dropped us off and picked us up from clubs each night, and "chaperoned" us. Quebec city was a great place to spend new years 2006 and all of us would agree that we would go back in a flash. We would like to thank Jacky Elfiki for making this trip possible. Without her, our graduating year would not have been the same!

A Night At The Oscars

And The Oscar Goes To...

Semi Formal Held at the Tower Gardens on Friday February 10th was a night of excitement and glamour. As students started to arrive at the beautiful location, cameras instantly began flashing about the room, as everyone wanted to remember the moment. As you wandered into the hall music was playing and dinner was being served. Everyone walked about in their elegant dresses and handsome suits. Midway through the night Oscars were handed out to certain people. Jelena Vulic and Matt Kassis walked away with best dressed male and female. Ashley Britton was awarded most outrageously dressed and Kelly Wallace won vixen of the night. The player award went to Anthony Tran while Sarah Edward and Steve Berzins won best dressed couple. The night was a huge success as Port Credit students danced the night away. When it was time to go no one really wanted to leave. A special thanks to our SAC president Vikram and his team of hard workers who made the night so amazing.

The feared O-line of the Warriors

After five long years Football is back at Port Credit. Although the team didn't do as well as they would have hoped to they still gave it they're all every play no matter what the score is.

With the help of Coach Dyce, Ford and Lutsma the boys were able to learn their positions well enough to compete against the other schools. At the start of the season the other teams took advantage of the Warriors lack of experience, but after alot of tough practices and hard work the Warriors were starting to understand what exactly their responsibilities are. Not only were the players getting better at their positions, they were starting tho work as a team.

Football is a sport that in order to be successful the whole team must work as a unit. If everyone does there job then there is no question as to which team will be victorious.

One thing the football program has done is raise school spirit. The home opener was a buy out and instead of paying just to leave the school earlier almost all of the students who bought out were at the game. The crowd in the stands was more than double the game at Erindale.

The Port Credit Warriors 2005 season will pave the way for the future generations of student athletes that will attend Port Credit.

Girls Hockey

PORT CREDIT'S GIRLS TAKE IT TOO EM' ON THE ICE AND THE FIELD

This was a great year for the PCSS Girls Ice Hockey teams! Jacky Elfiki, who was a member of of the ice hockey team, places most of the success of the team with it's Captain, Leah Taylor.

"She's a great leader, really inspiring,' notes Jacky. "She could easily play for the women's national team in the future."

I'm sure all of Port Credit would root for her if she did that!

Doing a team sport like ice hockey seems to give out a lot of positive feelings, with the girls saying it was "fun, and enjoyable," and that as the season went on "the team really pulled it together."

Right: The team huddles before a game

Maja Indjich says she will have fond memories of this year Girl's Field Hockey season.

"We put together a really good, solid season, and I feel we really improved ask a team."

Leadership plays a big role in any team sport, and field hockey was no exception. "The team got great leadership from the coaches and our captain Heather."

Girls on the move

The varsity girls flag football team here at Port Credit had a great season. Try-outs began early in September to assure the team was together and prepared for their first game. Many girls tried out, and showed great potential for this fall sport. Those who didn't make the cut shouldn't feel discouraged, as there is always next year!

The team is compiled of talented athletes from grades nine through twelve, which assures a broad range of talented players, and an opportunity to meet new people and make friends. This year the girls had seven games before playoffs, and were looking strong. Their first head to head was versus Loyola on home soil where Port Credit came out on top. The team played hard, and for many it was their first flag football experience.

The team got past the 'first game jitters' quickly as they began. They started the first quarter losing. They came into the second quarter strong and with a positive mind set of 0-0 regardless of the score. This kept everyone focused and eager to get ahead.

Throughout the game it was apparent everyone began playing as more of a team, supporting each other. This ended in the teams favor with a win. Coaches Ms.Proctor, Mrs. Hashimoto, and Mr. Stewart really encouraged their athletes to think positively. They held practice almost every day after school and they showed as much dedication to the sport as their team did. Overall, they had a very successful season, and many of the players are anxious to get back on the field next year!

Port Credit has had a history of success in the sport of wrestling. Most high schools offer this program, but it is doubtful that they can compare to the dedication that is put forth by both students and coaches here at PC. The wrestling team is co-ed which is beneficial to match wrestlers against other team mates for practice with the same weight. This aspect of the sport can broaden the athlete's versatility as they may wrestle people of different age and gender in practice. Wrestling has always been a highly successful team at Port Credit which helps add to the morale of all the athletes. Wrestling really adds to the spirit of students in Port Credit. This year has been an outstanding season for PC, and I'm sure you will make us proud again, way to go!

This year, the improv team entered its fifth Canadian Improv Games competition. After three nights of grueling play, the team placed second in the Zone playoffs and qualified for the Toronto Regional competition for the first time.

The Toronto region of the CIG is divided into eight zones, with approximately 60 teams in total. Port Credit is part of the Giant Insect Zone with seven other schools. The top three teams from each zone advance to the Regional competition in Toronto. PCSS placed second and qualified for the regional competition.

For many of the members on the team, this was the final year of performance. Over half of the team members are in grade twelve.

For veteran improver Harry Timson, he said, "We had a good run and that it was this year, my final year that we made it. That will stick with me, along with the greatest team I've known."

When asked whether he will continue improvising in the future, he said "Oh sure, I think improv has so much potential, and its fun for the players and the audience. Overall its a great way to express yourself. No matter who you are, your true self always comes out in your acting. After all, no one knows what is acting, and what is real."

Overall, the team experienced many successes this year. All of the team members should be proud of the hard work and effort they put into the year. Next year's team will surely showcase a new blood of talent from PCSS. What does the future hold for the new blood of improv at Port Credit? Only time will tell...

Stage Crew

This year, the stage crew have played an integral role in school life. Their dedication have allowed many school events run in the auditorium to run smoothly with few errors.

They have played a more dominant role this year in setting up equipment for many of the events in the music and dramatic events of the school such as music concerts and master lunches.

Working in tandem with the performers and organizers of these events, the stage crew ensures that events advance from beginning to end properly.

It is clear that without these young people behind the controls of many school functions, many of the school events in the auditorium would not occur.

Announcements

As the first period of every day comes to a close, the students of Port Credit are greeted by the morning announcers, whose upbeat enthusiasm begins the school day on the right foot.

For these announcers, it is not just about supplying information to the school about upcoming events. They ensure that they deliver that information in a manner that puts students in the right mood for the day.

Warrior Radio

Warrior Radio is a unique club which allows students (and possibly aspiring future DJ's) to experience life in a radio booth.

Every day, a group of DJs play music in the cafeteria while students enjoy their lunches. Students also have the opporunity to request songs to be played in the cafeteria.

These students enjoy being school DJ's, providing entertainment for students during their break in the school day.

P.C Music Travels to New York City!

Port Credit's Orchestra traveled to New York City on January 28th to February 1st 2006. The trip was a fun-filled, jammed-packed 5 days of excitement. The long journey made the orchestra students arrive at Port Credit for 5:30am on Saturday, before they embarked on the 12 hour long bus ride to NYC.

Once they arrived in New York, students checked into the hotel, quickly got changed and left to go to a concert dedicated to works by Mozart. Day 2 was packed with action. Activities of that day included a visit to Ground Zero, the Statue of Liberty, Central Park, Ellis Island, and to Century 21 department store for a chance to shop. On day 3, the orchestra played a concert at a public school, visited Radio City Hall, attended Planet Hollywood for dinner, and attended a performance of The Phantom of the Opera. Day 4 was more of a relaxed day, where students got to perform a concert at a seniors home, got the chance to go shopping while in New Jersey. The fifth day, students embarked on the 11 hour journey home.

All students that went on the trip have made many memories and many new friends. It was an experience that they will never forget!

Vocal Ensemble

The 2005-2006 P.C Vocal ensemble has taken a big step from last year. Their size, dedication, and performance are all factors which helped create this vocal revolution...

Last years ensemble consisted of 6 girls, but this year's ensemble has doubled in size! Their sound is pure, whole and together in the various pieces they perform throughout the year. The ensemble has been rehearsing since October on days 2 and 4 wth Ms. Gung to prepare for upcoming events such as concerts, Feeder school assemblies etc.

Aside from the wide range of colors and culture in the choir, every member has one thing in common: all of the students are dedicated to the ensemble, which is reflected through excellent attendance and performance capability.

Combined

Jazz band is an extracurricular activity in which dedicated music students can join each year. Whether students are in grade 9 or grade 12, jazz band gives music students the chance to engage in an exciting and relaxed environment, while encountering music of various jazz and pop styles.

"The Mission Inpossible" theme and "I get Around" by the Beach boys, are just two samples of the music that jazz band performs. Jazz band entertains at the Christmas and Spring concerts, grade eight parents night, and the Wonderland music festival in May. They have never failed to bring smiles to the audience as they familarize with the tunes they hear. This year's jazz band is composed of very talented, hardworking, and dedicated individuals who give their time freely for the enjoyment of playing in this incredible group.

The councils play a very vital role at Port Credit. Each council is essential to student government; their contributions to various aspects of student life being very valuable to school spirit. The Student Activity Council conducts spirit days such as hat day, pajama day, and blue and gold day. Events such as the playday, the semi-formal and the spring dance are also organised by S.A.C. Athletic Council organises sports tournaments, fundraisers, and other events such as the Halloween Dance. The councils of the arts help support music, drama and art at Port Credit. Music Council organises two concerts to showcase our musical talent, as well as trips to places such as New York and Vienna for musicians at Port Credit. Drama Council supports productions such as 'Seven Stories' (our first all-year production in years), and often holds events such as Master Lunch. The Visual Arts Council adorns the halls of the school with boards and posters that flaunt our artistic talents. Filled with students high on creativity and enthusiasm, these councils nurture the leaders of tomorrow and help make Port Credit the amazing place it is.

The mistaken definition of art often lies in clichés such as "That is so good." Well, what is good art? Can we put labels on which pieces are good or not?

As the Egyptians focused on the after-life, the Greeks strived for balance (physical, intellectual, emotional, and spiritual)

Leonardo da Vinci perfected realism while Wassily Kandinsky rose with paintings without the need of realism but still send emotions: abstraction.

Art creates beauty. It reveals the obvious and the unrecognized truth. It expresses beliefs, chaos. It provokes our thoughts and lets our emotions flow. Most importantly, it fulfills the artists' needs to remember, create, and live.

We learn these things in Ms. Zita's and Ms. Urquhart's art classes. Visual arts courses (Grade 9-12) let us remember the past, while Media arts courses (Grade 10-12) focus more on the 20th century art.

As Picasso broke everything down into pieces and Jackson Pollock splattered and threw everything on the canvas, is there still a fixed definition fort art? Was there ever one?

For the past three years, Port Credit has been represented at the annual Think-Biz business plan competition. This contest draws schools from across the Peel region, and some from the Dufferin-Peel region. Each year, teams are given a hypothetical scenario where they are responsible for setting up a particular type of business. From theme parks to circuses to airlines, these students have developed them all. After coming second in 2004, and fourth in 2005, PC had another great showing, finishing in the top 10 this year. Results will be announced at a later date. Way to go PC!!
