Co-editor

Kevin Smith

I know that not too many people care what the editors of the yearbook have to say so I'll keep this short and sweet (and try not to use too many big words to make myself sound smarter than I am). If you are reading this message it means that you're holding the final copy of the 2007/2008 yearbook in your hand and it did in fact get finished. Right now I am probably much more excited than you about this book, but if you do have some unnatural obsession with it, feel free to buy me a coke. Actually, you might have to pitch for a 2-4 to cover the rest of the core group that worked incessantly (sorry) on this book. My co-editor Hailey Roll worked her Pocahontas boots off along side me writing articles, taking pictures, and keeping everyone sane. Mr. Englert was money, coming up with last minute pictures, greasing the wheels with staff members and acting as our fearless leader throughout the year. Of course, Evan Smithers did a ridiculous amount of designing and picture organizing throughout the year, deserving at least 3 cokes. Finally, I would like to thank the rest of my good buddies in the yearbook class that organized events, wrote articles, played Super Mario, took pictures, gathered information and brought me food (you know who you are). I hope that you all enjoy our first full colour yearbook and appreciate the hours that were spent trying to preserve the memories from our last year of high school. Good luck grads '08 as well as yearbook class for '09.

Within minutes of assuming the daunting title of co-editor, it became very apparent to me that the task of completing this yearbook would not be easy. I was aware of what a yearbook consisted of and I knew the amount of time needed to produce a mediocre yearbook. But this year the journalism class and myself did not just want to produce a mediocre yearbook. We set our standards high, in hopes of exceeding the quality of previous yearbooks. This year we decided to keep everything simple yet powerful through the images, designs and, writing found in this book. This was a challenging task that could not have been met without the help from the dedicated group of individuals, who stood out in the class. Thank you to Mr. Englert, who gave up his free time to help us produce this yearbook and who constantly reminded us that our class time should not be used as a social hour. Thank you to my Co-editor Kevin Smith, whose constant dedication and remarkable journalistic skills, made the articles in this yearbook stand out. Thank you to the amazing design editor, Evan Smithers, because without him we would not have a yearbook right now. Thank you to Sarah Stoyanovich, Karissa Jankowski Sanchez, Vicky Shilton and, the rest of the journalism class who were able to pry themselves away from Facebook and Super Mario, long enough to notice work needed to be done. Now that this year's yearbook is complete, I am very proud to say that I was a part of such an amazing book. Being the co-editor has been a unique yet rewarding experience that I will never forget. This experience has showed me that creating a yearbook is not as easy as it may seem.

Well it's finally over, and to be honest I couldn't be happier. That being said, as stressful and tedious as it was, this was an amazing experience and won't be soon forgotten. As I begin the layout for these two pages, I realize now that my co-editors have written much more then I intend on writing, but then again that's what they do best, so I will try and keep mine fairly short. I would like to thank everyone who helped with the yearbook, especially those who were not even part of this class. Co-editors, Hailey and Kevin, there is no way this project would have been completed without your attention to detail and outstanding writing skills. The yearbook class, well some of you, thanks for all your help and support, I know Super Mario will treat you well. But honestly, without you many tasks would not have even been close to complete. Sarah Stoyanovich, Karissa Jankowski Sanchez and Vicky Shilton, I can't thank you all enough. Last and certainly not least Mr. Englert, the countless hours you put into organizing and sometimes even doing this yearbook is greatly appreciated by everyone in the class and school. This yearbook would not be anything close to what it is, if not for everyone's efforts. I sincerely hope that every student from grade nine to the grads appreciate this book for years to come, and good luck to all the students of next years team, just try and top this :).

Principal

Jan Courtin

It is always exciting to get the yearbook into your hands, "hot off the press". I'm sure you'll agree, it is just an outstanding edition this year! Thanks to Mr. Paul Englert and his journalism students for putting together this volume of memories for all of us. It is a huge amount of work. Do let them know how much you appreciate it!

2007-2008 marks the transition to the semester system. I have informally surveyed many students by just chatting in the halls and I think the overall view is a "thumbs up". It did take some adjusting I know, on the part of teachers as well as students. I think when you have what you would consider your "tough semester", you don't like it as well as when you have your "easier semester". At any rate, we have joined the ranks of the majority of Peel schools. There are only two left that run on a term system. Being semestered allows students to come back for just one more semester before university or college, as many of you choose to do.

I have been heartened by the constant message of positive values this year, as we have reviewed respect, responsibility, compassion and honesty. The display boards from the art department, with the inspiring quotations artistically presented, have certainly affected me as I read them almost daily. I hope that you were also similarly affected, and that you had a chance to reflect on becoming a better person, just by reading these quotes or by hearing them read over the P.A.

Of course Port Credit students are already outstanding! I hear how wonderful you are from the teachers assigned here to supply teach, from visitors to the building, and through my personal interactions with you. As your principal, I am proud of all of you, proud to be your school leader, and proud to be here at Port Credit Secondary, school of the Warriors with heart!

"We are afraid to care too much, for fear that the other person does not care at all."-Eleanor Roosevelt. WARRIOR PRIDE, a pride that was once lost has now been found. SAC raised the roof of school spirit through many student-planned events! This year we had the Charity Christmas Raffle, that raised money for needy families in our school, the Canned Food Drive, that raised over 500 cans for charity, the Alice and Wonderland themed, Roses are Red Dance, and the three hour lunch Carnival. SAC, while fun and exciting is also a lot of hard work. These events could not have been possible without the united team of executives and the supportive general members that put a lot of time and effort into creating what we know as, Warrior Spirit! Thanks to Bianca Miller, Hilary Penn, Hilary Simpson , Jordan Dowding, Huda Al-Imari and Najla Lila. This year would not have been possible without our devoted principal, Ms. Courtin, and our dedicated staff rep, Mrs. Hogan-Stefanovic. I hope the spirit of Port Credit will live on for many years to come in the hearts and lives of future Port Credit students. To my fellow graduates, these past four years went by in a flash and I want to thank Port Credit for what was truly an incredible experience that I will never forget! There are so many opportunities out there, the world is waiting for you so go out, get it, and don't look back. Cheers to the futures of Port Credit Students everywhere, I hope you'll take the Warrior Spirit with you wherever your journeys may take you. REGISTRATION

APPROVED

After what seems to be a short summer, students are all brought back to reality when registration roles around. This dreaded day indicates the beginning of a new school year. On this day students must get their picture taken, and get their schedule for the year ahead. They are also required to pay a fee, which goes towards purchasing things such as yearbooks. Registration ran quite smoothly, thanks to all of the teachers and students who volunteered their time to help out.

TERRY FOX

THE WALK

The Terry Fox Run was established in 1981, the year following Terry's death. The run is a tribute to Terry's historic endeavour to run across Canada after losing his leg to cancer. Unfortunately, once making his way through Ontario, the cancer had spread and he could no longer continue his journey. Port Credit Students have raised money and awareness for the Terry Fox foundation for cancer research by getting pledges to walk or run around the community. Today, millions of people participate in some facet of the run and prove that Terry's efforts were not in vain.

INTERNATIONAL MUSIC DAY

LISTEN UP

International Music Day at Port Credit was an event that exposed students to a wide variety of musical entertainment. On this day the performers awed us with their fantastic musical ability as they performed piano, drum, violin, vocal, and dance numbers. Port Credit has always been very proud of its flourishing music department and the performances they give fairly regularly, but International Music Day was a chance to showcase some of the schools lesser known musical talent. All the acts were fantastic and proved that Port Credit sets the musical standard for high school students.

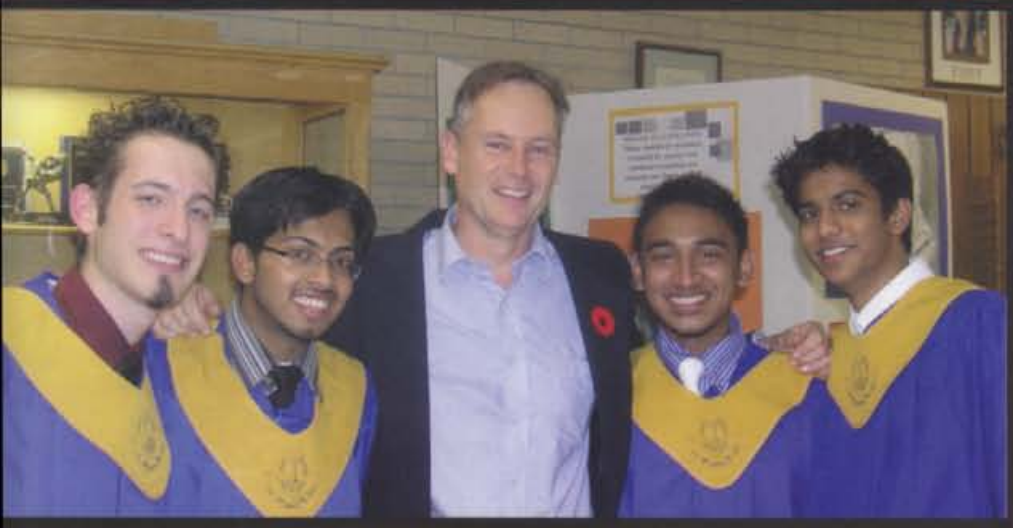
COMMENCEMENT



WELCOME BACK

Commencement is a chance for all of the recent graduates of Port Credit to gather together and reminisce about their high school years. This year Port Credit held its annual Commencement ceremony on Friday, November 2nd in the auditorium. Over the course of the evening, current and former Port Credit students received awards based on academics and community achievements. Everyone enjoyed the chance they had to catch up with their old friends and compare stories from their first few months in university. The night ended with an inspiring speech by Saad Ansari, and was the perfect end to a very surreal yet enjoyable night.

- Jessica Mancini

This year's girl's flag football team consisted of an eager group filled with determination and spirit. The girls practised hard and it showed as they picked apart opposing defences and smothered enemy offences. With the help of coaches Mrs. Hashimoto, Ms. Proctor, and Mr. Allen Stewart, the team finished with a 6-2 record and made it all the way to the semi-finals. Although the results were not what they wanted, spirits were high as this was an all time best, and we hope next season goes just as well, if not better!

VARSITY FOOTBALL

After years of not having a boy's football team, this year's edition of the Warriors showed that they are back and are a force to be reckoned with. It was a hard-hitting season of PC football as the team ploughed its way to its first playoff appearance in seven years. Practising every night, running drills, and working hard at game plays whipped our PC boys into game shape. At the end of the day, all of the hard work was worth it as they finished with a record of 4-3 during the regular season. Special thanks goes out to coach Dyce, coach Cowan, coach Morgan, coach Mckee, coach Johnson and coach Howes for all of their hard work. Thanks to all the coaches and players, football is alive and well at Port Credit after its long absence. Great season boys and good luck next year.

CROSS COUNTRY

Students have many hardships to deal with over their 4 years at high school. Attention always has to be paid to the mandatory challenges of maintaining a good average, and a part-time job, let alone completing a minimum of 40 hours of community service. The one challenge however, that is over looked by many students is staying in shape. The members of the cross-country team at Port Credit don't have to worry about that. This years edition of cross-country runners was a small but spirited group that always gave it their all. The entire team placed well at ROPSSA, highlighted by Colin Soltesz, who finished 25th out of approximately 500 students. Keep on running PC!

TENNIS DOUBLES

Have you ever watched any of the major tennis Open tournaments and noticed a Canadian participant? The most recent Canadian triumph occurred at the 2000 Olympics when Daniel Nestor and Sebastien Lareau captured gold (the first gold medal for Canadian tennis players since 1968). The tennis team at Port Credit is doing their best to produce the next line of great Canadian Tennis stars. This year the team included two men's doubles teams, one mixed doubles team and three singles teams. All of Port Credit's tennis teams put forth an exceptional performance during the tennis season, showing that maybe someday you will see them compete against the top European and American players on the ATP.

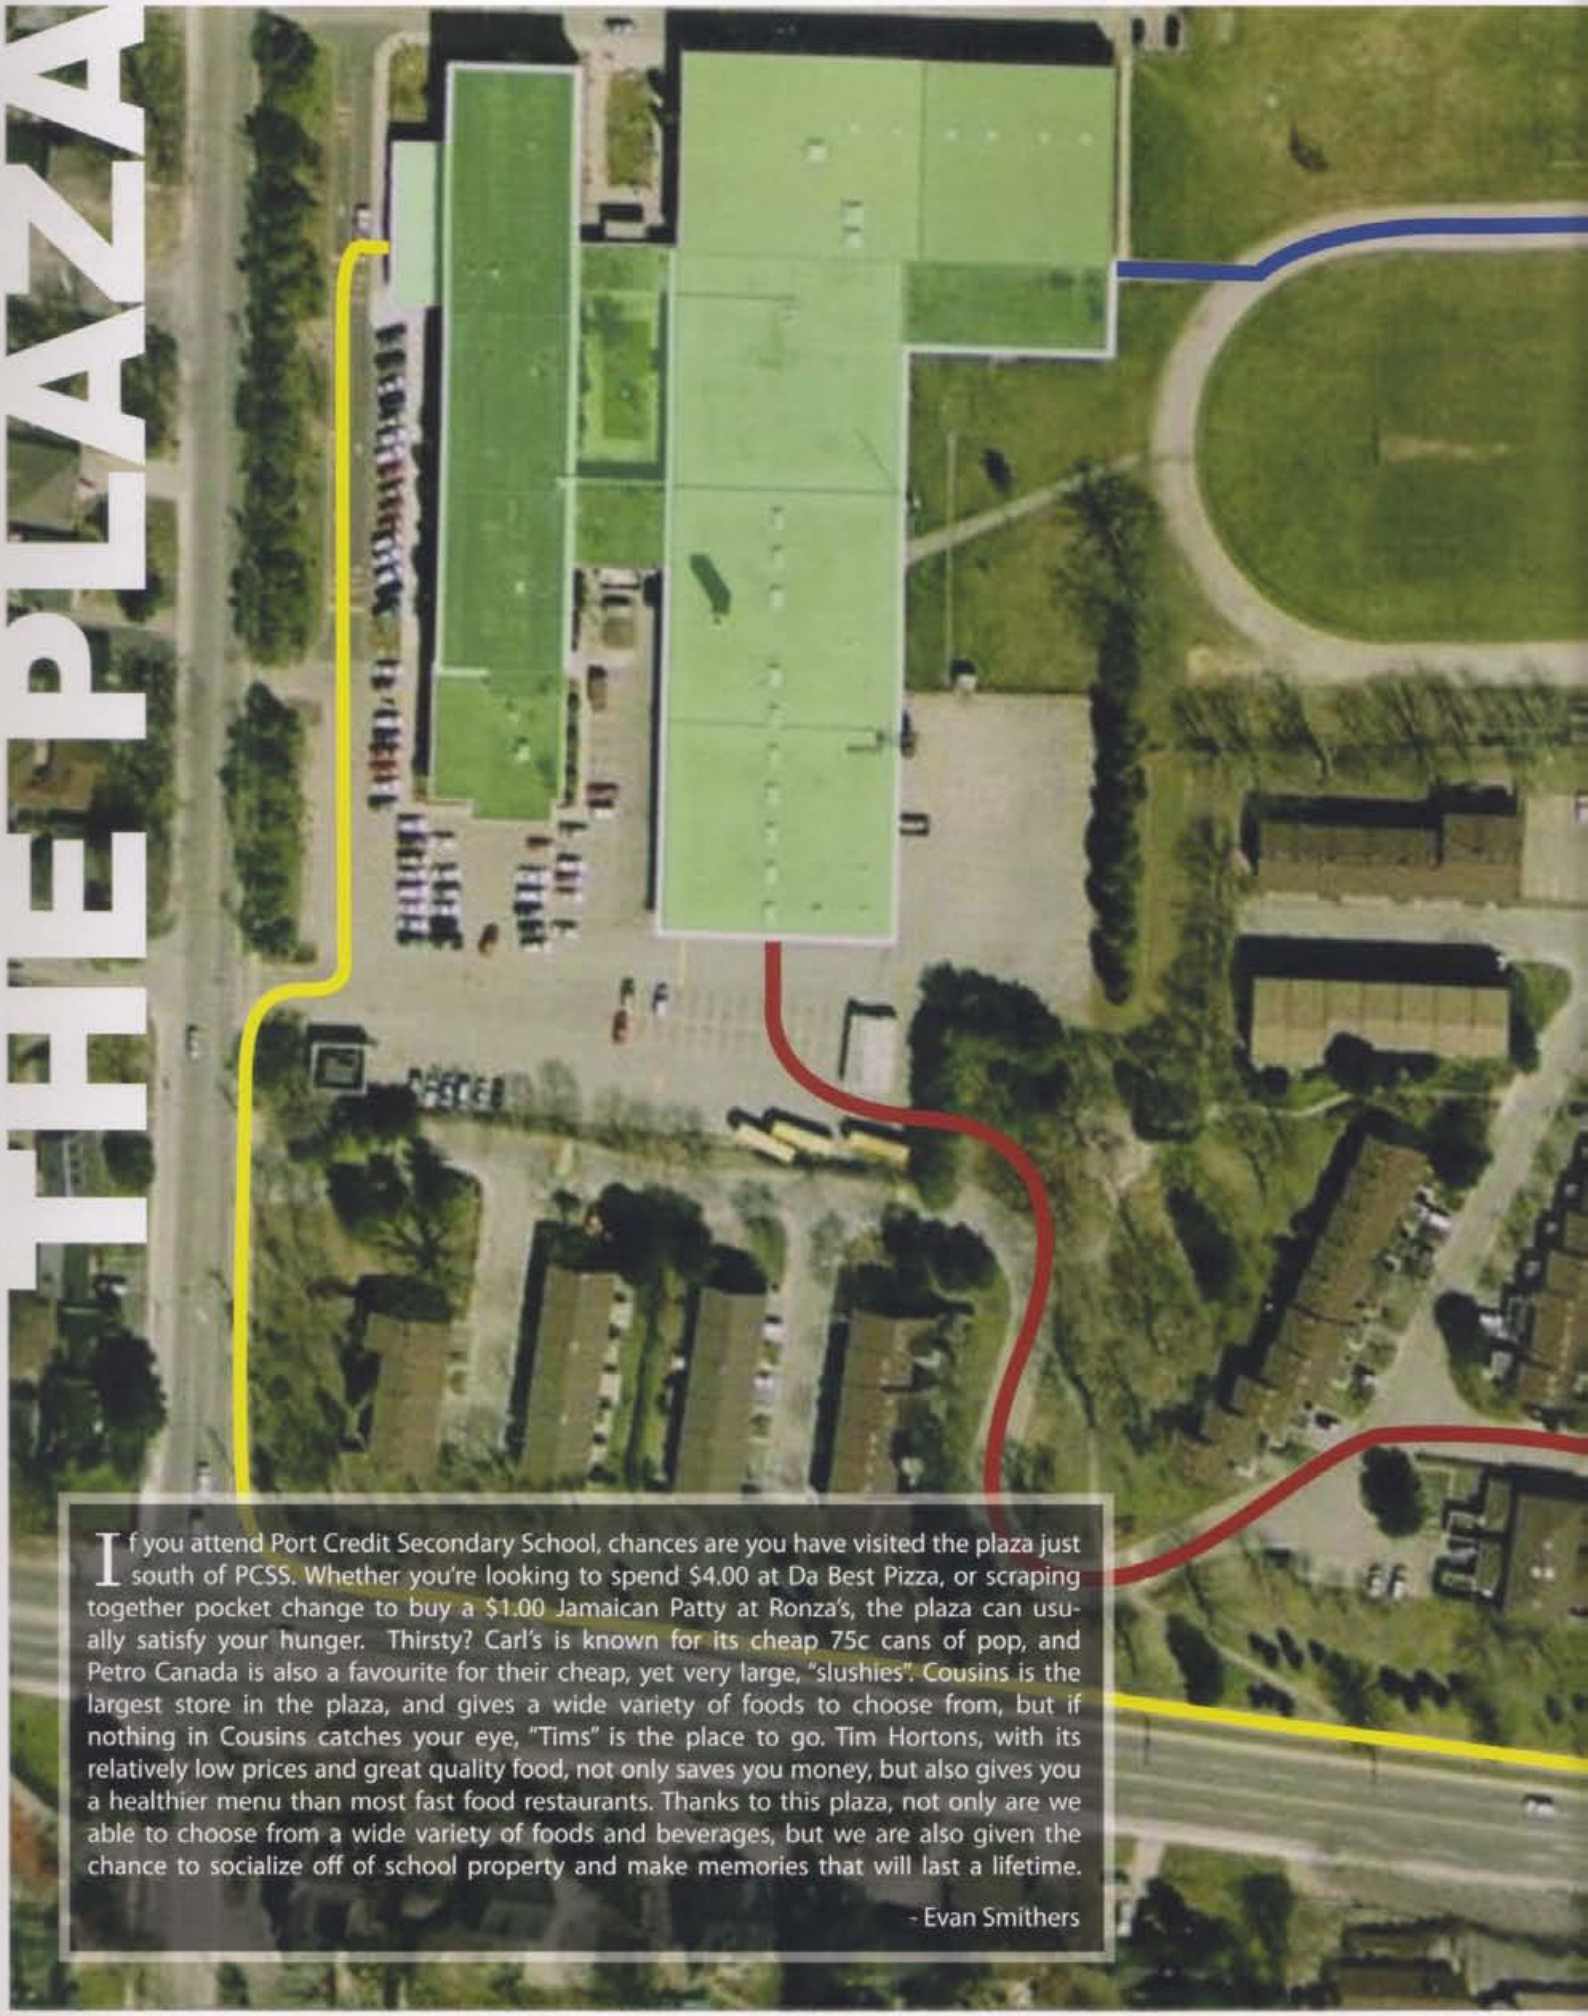
THE PLAZA



If you attend Port Credit Secondary School, chances are you have visited the plaza just south of PCSS. Whether you're looking to spend $4.00 at Da Best Pizza, or scraping together pocket change to buy a $1.00 Jamaican Patty at Ronza's, the plaza can usually satisfy your hunger. Thirsty? Carl's is known for its cheap 75c cans of pop, and Petro Canada is also a favourite for their cheap, yet very large, "slushies". Cousins is the largest store in the plaza, and gives a wide variety of foods to choose from, but if nothing in Cousins catches your eye, "Tims" is the place to go. Tim Hortons, with its relatively low prices and great quality food, not only saves you money, but also gives you a healthier menu than most fast food restaurants. Thanks to this plaza, not only are we able to choose from a wide variety of foods and beverages, but we are also given the chance to socialize off of school property and make memories that will last a lifetime.

TRUE CONFESSIONS OF A HOLLYWOOD STARLET

Port Credit opened its 2007/2008 year with a visit from a true Hollywood starlet. Joanne "Jojo" Levesque as well as Valerie Bertinelli were on hand as our school played host to the cast and crew from the film "True Confessions of a Hollywood Starlet", directed by Tim Matheson (Las Vegas, Cold Case, Criminal Minds). Many Port Credit students were involved in the production, acting as extras in the cafeteria or in front of the school. The result of our students' hard work will be seen as a TV only movie on lifetime television and is scheduled for release in mid-2008. The production was a great learning experience, providing a glimpse into possible career paths for both film and drama students .

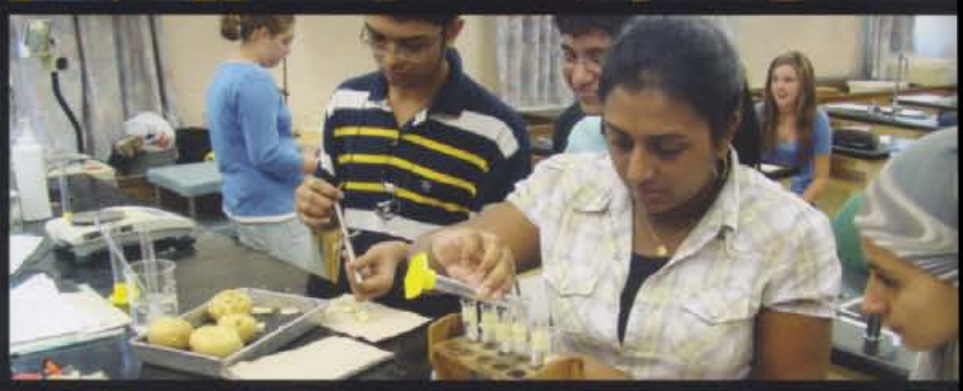
SCIENCE

Boyle, Rutherford, Newton and, Bohr are all names that one may encounter as they study science at a high school level. Their laws, theories and, equations are what one learns and expands on in hopes of further understanding the world around us. Science is constantly expanding and new ideas are continually being created in the attempt to explain how things work. In one's senior years of high school, science begins to become more in depth and specialized as it gets divided into three main courses, Biology, Chemistry and, Physics. Ms Smeaton, Mr.Burnham, Ms.Davis, Mr. Wells, Mr.Nesbitt, Ms.Okameme, Mr.Penrose, Mr.Kolenko,and Ms.Okopny all work together in hopes of creating future scientists.

- Hailey Roll



SCI-TECH

The Sci-tech program enters its 4th year of existence in 2008/2009, meaning it will release its first graduates into the world of post-secondary education. Students from all around Ontario flock to Port Credit to be a part of its prestigious Science and Technology program. Many interesting courses are offered to enhance the students' knowledge and understanding of the elements and principles relating to science and technology. We are confident our first Sci-tech graduates will make Port Credit proud next year.

- Chris Layne

CARETAKERS

Port Credit students are rarely accused of being the cleanest in the world, greatly increasing the importance of our dedicated caretakers. Always bringing a positive attitude to the hallways, the caretakers not only keep the school ship shape, but also contribute to the atmosphere at PCSS. Mr. Federico, Mr. Tudge, Mr. Fazzari, Mr. Glavan, Mr. Prus, and Ms. McLean make up the hard-working custodial staff that keeps Port Credit beautiful.

- Tiffany Paine

KITCHEN STAFF

Every day at Port Credit hundreds of hungry students flock to the cafeteria in search of food and drink. The Kitchen Staff come in every day with a friendly attitude, making the lunch environment happier for all the students who eat in "the Caf". Ms. T. Dias, Ms. S. Rosa, and Ms J. Stewart work tirelessly to provide students with tasty and healthy dishes to appease their appetites.

- Kevin Smith

MUSIC COUNCIL

The music council is the heart of Port Credit's booming music program. With one of the most prestigious music programs in the GTA, the council always has projects to keep them busy and funds to raise. Diana Zucarrelli-Pegoraro, along with her dedicated staff, organize trips to places as far as our nation's capitol. Periodically, the council organizes performances for the school, as well as winter concerts and other late night recitals. Without the hard work of our committed music council, every note would fall a little flat.

- Kevin Smith

BEGINNER BAND

The beginning band arrived the first day of school as eager students ready to play their instruments. Through months of hard work and practise, they became musicians. Ms. Gung, the band's teacher, is extremely proud of their progress as musicians and as maturing students. According to Ms. Gung, "many practise every day in order to produce quality in their music." Through music the students have impacted others around them. The class raised over one-hundred-dollars for the Penny Drive which truly made a difference. Ms. Gung also believes, "These students actually care about people. They are good, spirited people, who will grow into leaders. They are not only great musicians, but great people."

- Krystyn Coombs

INTERMEDIATE BAND

The intermediate band at Port Credit is a combination of musically talented students in grades nine and ten that collaborate to produce refined music. The band practises for half an hour twice a week and many devote their time outside of school to their instrument. The band plays scores from various composers, such as Von Suppé and Tchaikovsky, with stoic determination and class. Ms. Gung, the band's devoted and inspiring teacher, believes "they work together from the beginning of a piece with great unity and end with a grand finale!" She is very proud of her students and wishes them the best of luck in their bright futures.

- Krystyn Coombs

INTERMEDIATE STRINGS

The Intermediate Strings ensemble is comprised of a group of advanced Grade 9s and Grade 10s. Under the direction of Dr. Kizas, the fervent group of youngsters developed their skill greatly throughout the year. As they improved at their instruments, the club began to tackle various complex musical scores including, "St. Anthony's Chorale", "Fancy Fiddles", and "Christmas Sampler". Headlined by a stellar show at our Winter Concert, the Intermediate Strings ensemble was a key musical entity at Port Credit, providing us with many musical masterpieces.

- Kevin Smith

SMALLER VOCAL ENSEMBLE

The smaller vocal ensemble met every Tuesday from 3-4 PM at Port Credit Secondary School. The ensemble was composed of eight dedicated vocalists who shared a love for music. Led by Diana Zucarrelli-Pegoraro, the group sang a variety of contemporary pieces such as, "I've just seen a face", by the Beatles, which was a huge hit at the Christmas Concert. All the pieces that were sung were accompanied by piano. "It was so much fun because it was a time to hang out with our friends and share our love for music," recalls Kira Youngblet , a valued member of the Smaller Vocal Ensemble. Though small, the group brought a lot of spirit to the music program while having fun in the process.

-Krystyn Coombs

ORCHESTRA

An orchestra is a large instrumental ensemble, that includes string, brass, woodwind, and percussion sessions. Together it forms a rhythmic, complex production. Dr. Andrew Kizas leads the orchestra to performances here at Port Credit, as well as on the road in Ottawa and Kingston. Songs include the Harry Potter Theme and Bohemian Rhapsody, as well as traditional music including the works of George Friedrich, Händel and Antonio Vivaldi.

- Kirk Magdy

CHAMBER STRINGS

Passion, talent, and dedication are only a few of the words that Port Credit chamber strings students display on a daily basis. Throughout the year, they played numerous pieces including Concerto Grosso, Haydn Symphony, and even selections from Harry Potter. With help and guidance from Dr. A. Kizas the students were able to display their talents in various shows including "A Musical Getaway," and their own musical productions. The Chamber String's students have exposed their musical gifts, and proved that Port Credit has many talented music students.

DARE DAY

Dignity and Respect Everywhere is a program that promotes a positive relationship between peers and their senior students at high school. Port Credit held its annual D.A.R.E Day on September 26th for all the new Grade Nine students and their Grade Eleven peer mentors. The day included orientation activities, peer bonding and a delicious hotdog lunch provided by the peer mentor students from last year. The purpose of the day is to welcome the Grade Nine students to Port Credit and promote respect between the senior students and the newcomers. This program has become a yearly fixture at PCSS because it helps the students become comfortable with the senior students as well as each other within the first month of school. This year's DARE Day was a huge success. The Grade Nines not only learned the importance of being respectful to their peers, but also the importance of showing dignity to everyone, everywhere.

NINER NERVES

A grade nine's first day of school can be compared to a lamb's last day before the slaughter. Or, at least that's the way they see it before it comes to pass. Leaving the secure bubble of middle school for the first time, they are apprehensive about making a first impression on the institute where they will spend the majority of their time over the next four years. The first day passes by as a blur. New teachers, new classes, new friends; all of these are terrifying when first encountered. As the school year progresses, the grade nine students become comfortable with their surroundings and begins to create an identity for themselves. For some, high school is instantly a comfortable environment, while for others there is an initial struggle to fit in but eventually everyone finds their niche and flourishes in their own way at PCSS.

THESOUNDSOFSILENCE

Gunshots rang through the air, fighter planes flew overhead, and the fallen soldiers cried out-these were the sounds of war. In the fall of 1918, the war was over and Canada felt victorious freedom as well as the tremendous loss of men and women who fought courageously for the freedom we enjoy today. On November 11, we remember those who lost their lives in the raging battles of the past and those who are losing their lives today to keep peace in this world. We remember the families and friends that were left behind. On Remembrance Day, we remember to learn from the past so that we will have a brighter future filled with freedom and peace. For the voices that were silenced, for the words that went unread, for actions that were never taken, we remember... 'Lest we forget'.

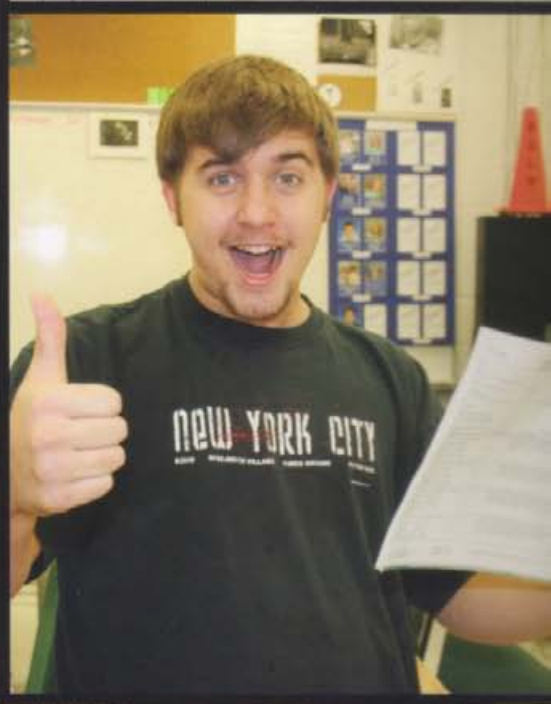
MIDTERM REPORTS



PWNED

With Port Credit's recent transition to the semester system, mid-term report cards contain fewer marks but still produce the same results. They make the day of some students, while they send others into a massive spiral of depression. Generally, the percentage grade is regarded as the most feared piece of information to share with your parents, but a crushing blow can often come from the teacher's comments. For example, "With a horribly written final exam, Kevin has finished the course with a whimper". Comments like these are a student's worst nightmare, but mid-term reports leave half a semester to heed your teacher's comments and pull up your socks

GIRLS FIELD HOCKEY

After a rough start to the season, the varsity girls field hockey team picked themselves up and played their hearts out, finishing off with a 3-4 record. The team was going strong but was hit with an unexpected end to the season. Unfortunate circumstances aside, the team played every game with a ton of hustle and effort, thoroughly impressing coaches, Ms. Mohammed and Mr. Shaikh. A special thanks goes to Miss D, a former Port Credit student, who volunteered to coach the girls and donated new field hockey sticks to the team. Overall, the girls had a great season and they all deserve congratulations for making the season one to remember.

Anxiously standing on the block awaiting the start of a race can be one of the most nerve-racking things a swimmer encounters, but once the horn blows the idea that every second counts becomes more apparent. The members of the Port Credit Swim Team understand this all too well. They showed tremendous dedication, speed and, grace as they competed at the OPSSAA championship swim meet at the Etobicoke Olympium on February 20th. Coaches Ms. McDermid and Mr. Montgomery helped the team prepare for this very important meet by hosting practices at least three times a week either before or after school. Some of the swimmers who represented Port Credit were; Sherry Patel who placed 5th in the girls 100m freestyle race and 3rd in the girls 50m freestyle race. Conroy Stewart who placed 13th in the boys 50m breast race and Rachel Martine who placed 7th in the girls 100m IM race. The boys 200m medley relay team also proudly represented Port Credit by placing 6th in the final round.

The Junior Boys Basketball team were a young, spirite bunch of kids that played high-octane Warriors baske ball. Living up to their Golden State namesake, Port Cred played a fast paced style with a pressing full court defenc This made for very exciting games, often with down-to-th wire finishes. With no clear superstar, the junior boys reli on ball movement and hustle to get the job done. BOYS BASKETBALL

The Port Credit Senior Boys Basketball team entered the 2007/2008 year with a 6'10 hole in its frontcourt. With last year's star centre Jasonn Hannibal gone to play college ball in Portland, coach Wells was looking for contributions from everyone on the scoreboard as well as in the locker room. The boys learned teamwork and work ethic through grueling practices and hard fought matches. They played hard all year and made great strides to becoming a powerhouse in high school basketball.

GIRLS BASKETBALL

Be it obnoxious fans, hard fouls on the floor, or playing with injuries, the Port Credit girl's basketball team overcame every obstacle in their way this season. In October, the girls attended Camp Olympia, as a team bonding weekend and tournament. The girls had some close games against quality teams, learned some great drills from Coach Davis and Coach Wells, and became much closer as a team. Playing in one of the toughest divisions, the girls finished the regular season with a respectable 3-5 record, but a tough first round playoff game brought their season to an end. Although it wasn't a winning season, the team was proud of how hard they worked throughout the season and gained valuable experience for future years.

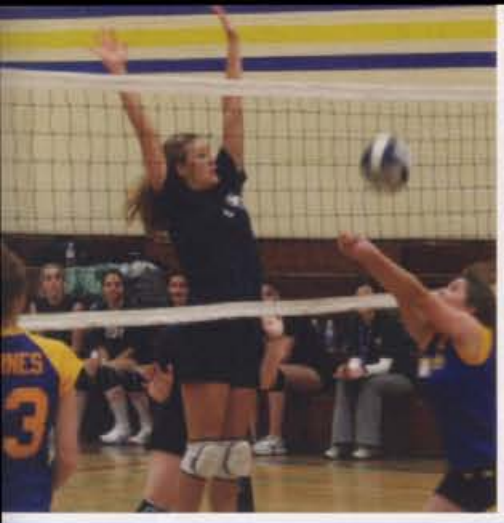
VARSITY CHESS

Chess is a recreational and competitive game that involves foresight, circumspection, and caution. The object of the game is to put yourself in the position to checkmate the opponent's king, whereby the king is under immediate attack. Port Credit has numerous participants that partake in various tournaments throughout the year. Mr. Geniev has put together a terrific team and has brought home more than six trophies. The members of the chess team love the opportunity to sharpen their intellect and learn new strategies. They truly represent our best and brightest.

- Kirk Magdy



The varsity girls' volleyball team prides itself on developing young players, while giving the senior students the majority of the playing time. This technique allows our Warrior girls to be competitive, as well as nurture the next crop of girls to fill the void left by the departed seniors. This years' Grade 11 and 12 students led the team to a fantastic season with great contributions from the juniors as well. With the stellar coaching of Ms. Hashimoto, the team will surely continue to develop good, young talent and find a way to win on the court for years to come.

They also assisted in several jobs around the school including newspaper delivery, recycling, helping out the office, and watering the plants in the main hall. CO-OP

The Co-op course allows students at Port Credit to get hands-on experience in a working environment that is potentially related to their future occupations. It is beneficial to every student involved because even if they don't like their placement, at least they didn't waste money on post secondary education before coming to that realization. Students that participate in this program say that it is a great learning experience, and helped them gain a great appreciation for the working world.

INTERACT CLUB

The Interact Club at Port Credit S.S. is designed to take on a world responsibility in our community and to help people at a international level. They are dedicated to their community service efforts within the school and community. Lead by Ms. Miller and the co-presidents Darsi Panchalingam and Vinoja Kamaleswaran, the Interact Club has helped raise approximately $2000 in order to build a school in Sierra Leone, by organizing events such as penny drives. They continuously help out with the Rotary club, travelogues, and Catch Up club where they hand out refreshments and provide extra assistance. They have also donated many items such as seeing eye glasses, for people in third world countries, and winter mittens, for needy children within our community. The Interact Club is full of generous people, who put the needs of others in front of their own.

ISLAMIC CLUB

With the Islamic population rising to between 1.1 billion and 1.8 billion people worldwide, Islam has become the second largest religion in the world. The Port Credit Islamic club is a place where Muslim students come to practice their religion and celebrate holidays. The most important holiday for the Islamic club is Eid, a celebration that marks the end of Ramadan. Mr. Shaikh utilizes the Islamc club room as a place for fasting during Ramadan and celebrating Eid upon its conclusion. The students thoroughly enjoy the opportunity to practice their religion in Port Credit's diverse and multicultural society.

SPANISH CLUB

The Spanish club is a place for people of Hispanic origin to recreate a Mediterranean atmosphere in PC. Ms. Rumlich, as well as the members of the Spanish Club spend the majority of their time practising the cumbia, salsa, bachata, merengue and other traditional Spanish dances. Dedicating two to three lunches a week in order to perfect their movements, the Spanish Club might be small in stature, but they are strong in their love for Spanish dancing.

"Tiempo es el mejor profesor, pero lamentablemente, esto mata a todos sus estudiantes."

LIBRARY CLUB

The members of Port Credit's library club take on a lot of responsibility by giving up their lunch periods and after school hours to ensure library maintenance. The 30 members of the club have designated shifts each day, during which they complete various tasks such as shelving books, organizing the magazine collection, and tidying up the library. The members are a great help to librarians Mr. Bonnette, Ms. Allen, and Ms. Rumlich; they take initiative and help supervise the library during lunch hours in which the library staff is not present. Through their work in the library, the members get the chance to learn critical skills such as independence and organization which they can carry on with them in their futures. The library club is an essential part of making sure that the library remains an accessible place for all of Port Credit students to use throughout the year.

GLOBAL GROUNDWORK

The Global Groundwork team was created by two ambitious Port Credit students who are intent on making a difference. The team works in partnership with Free The Children, a non-profit organization that focuses on children helping other children. The team held fund raising events throughout the year, such as buy-outs, the vow of silence, and car washes to support the brick-by-brick campaign, which focuses on building schools in Sierra Leone. Thanks to the global groundwork and all its participants that are working towards making the world a better place.

GREEN TEAM

The planet that we all know and love has gradually begun to feel the pressure that we, as consumers, have put on it. Through the efforts of Mrs. Kuypers and Ms. Lowe, the Green Team has been able to recruit a group of eco-friendly students who work together to raise student awareness about the state of our planet and find a solution. They organized a waste-audit at our school, and after going through all of our trash, found out that 85% of our garbage is recyclable! They have also initiated various projects such as making notebooks out of reusable paper, selling spruce trees to the students, and participating in the internationally recognized "Buy Nothing Day". The Green Team has had a positive influence on the students of Port Credit, and are making a difference in our world.

ANNOUNCEMENT TEAM

Every student at Port Credit looks forward to that special time of day when the voices of the Announcement Team echo through the hallways of Port Credit S.S. From 'Wacky Wednesdays' to the 'Thrilling Thursdays,' the Port Credit Announcement Team is dedicated to letting their fellow classmates know what is happening within their school and community. Whether it's an upcoming event, meeting, or tryout, all of the students at Port Credit are listening to the morning announcements. The beginning of the announcements indicates that first period is finally over, and the chipper voices of the announcement team wakes everyone up and puts them into a good mood, even the people who are half asleep. So be prepared to wake up, wipe the drool from your desk, and get ready to be entertained by the Morning Announcement Team.

SOPHOMORE SLOUCHES

Grade Ten is distinctly different than any other year students spend in high school. During ninth grade you still hang out primarily with your friends from middle school while you make acquaintances from other middle schools. Grade 10 is the year where all the lines blur and you become close with those ninth grade acquaintances. Although still a junior student at Port Credit, you are given more choices and responsibilitys in Grade 10. You are offered specialized courses, such as Media Arts and Communications Technology, but are still required to take the same old Science and History courses. You are no longer at the bottom of the totem pole and you even begin to fraternize with people from older grades as your comfort level rises. You have survived your first year at Port Credit and everything is starting to get easier - everything except the schoolwork.

SENIOR ART SHOW (2008)

The annual Port Credit Senior Art Show titled "Artificial World" was held at the Port Credit Public Library on Tuesday, January 15th. The show was a chance for graduating students to showcase their art to peers and adults who share the same passion. It was a great benefit to the senior students and gave them the opportunity to decide which pieces are the best fits for university portfolios or personal collections. The pieces included a wide variety of art from different mediums ranging from small digital images to large sculptures and models. Ms. Urquhart and Ms. Zita, along with a dedicated group of young artists ensured that the show ran smoothly and without a hitch. The promising group of students enjoyed having their art on display for all to see, not to mention the large amount of free food.

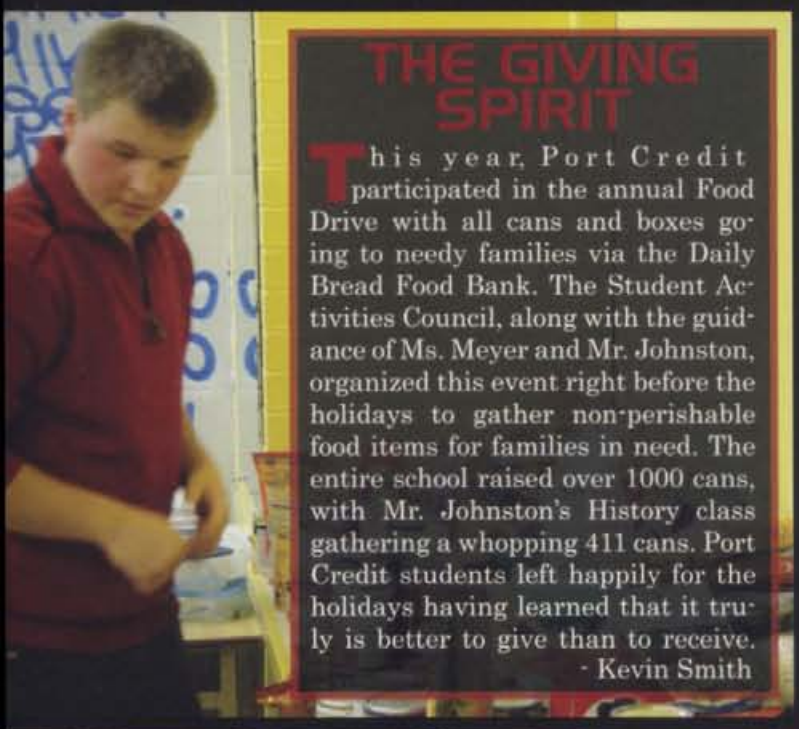
FOOD DRIVE



THE GIVING SPIRIT

This year, Port Credit participated in the annual Food Drive with all cans and boxes going to needy families via the Daily Bread Food Bank. The Student Activities Council, along with the guidance of Ms. Meyer and Mr. Johnston, organized this event right before the holidays to gather non-perishable food items for families in need. The entire school raised over 1000 cans, with Mr. Johnston's History class gathering a whopping 411 cans. Port Credit students left happily for the holidays having learned that it truly is better to give than to receive.

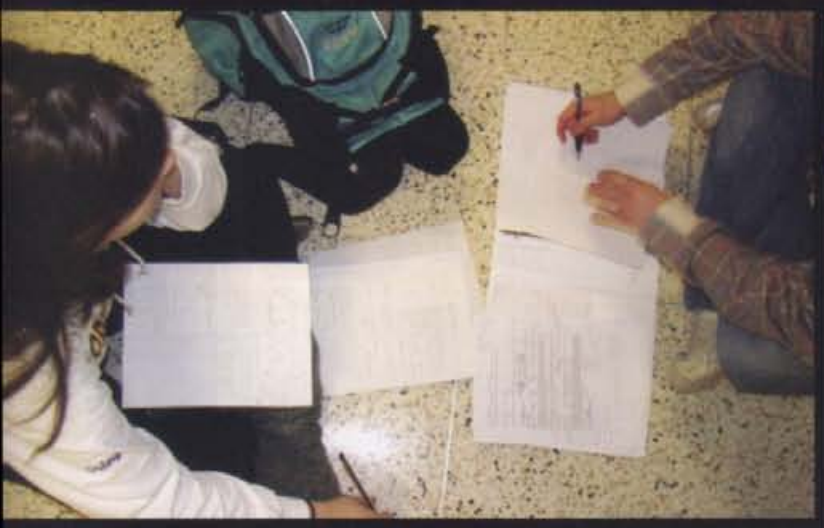
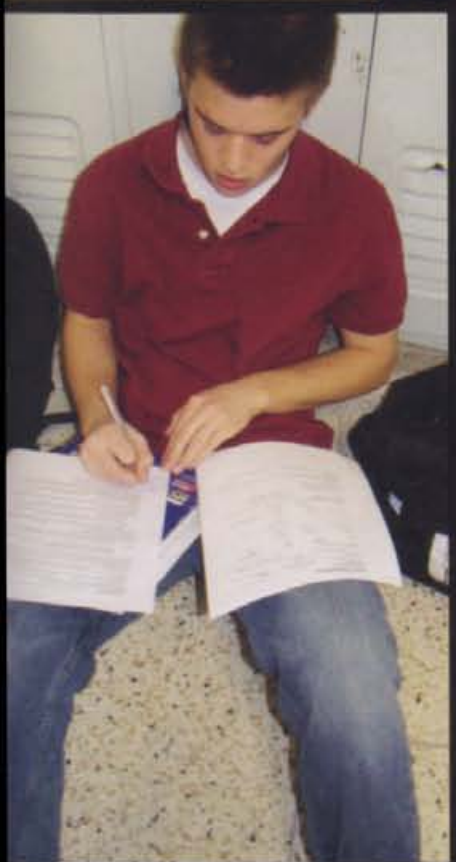
EXAMS





LAST CHANCE

The end of Port Credit's first ever semester marked the beginning of an extremely stressful couple of weeks as January slowly turned to February. Leisure activities were put on hold as studying took priority over all other facets of a student's life. For most students, the countless hours of studying were augmented by diligent work on culminating activities. While exam time is a pain, it pales in comparison to the stressfulness of a termed systems exam time. The semester system allowed students to focus on four subjects during exam time rather than eight which hopefully will result in better marks for everyone.

GIRLS VARSITY HOCKEY

With Canada's women's ice hockey team capturing back to back gold medals at the last two Olympics, competition has improved significantly in the minor leagues and high school leagues among girls. Port Credit's varsity girls' hockey team combined great work ethic and team leadership with a cast of extremely talented girls to generate a stellar year. With former Grey Cup champion Duane Ford applying his knowledge of what it takes to win to a spirited bunch of girls, the warriors pulled together an impressive season. The future also looks bright for this team as the majority of the girls will be returning next year to keep our Warrior tradition running strong.

SKI TEAM

As Canadians we are all used to long, cold and, snowy winters. Most people dread this time of year, especially after the Christmas season has passed, but not the Port Credit Ski Team, who can usually be seen on the slopes embracing the cold, snowy weather. This year the Ski Team floored the school with the best standings in many years. Headed by coach Ms. Gill, the team showed many top standings at ROPSSAA on February 13th, 2008. In Girls Giant Slalom Kelsey Whitten placed 1st, Emily Searle placed 6th and, Alex Hirnaik placed 10th. As for the Boys, Trevor Whitten placed 8th in the Giant Slalom and 5th overall, Jason Hines Duncliffe placed 9th in the Giant Slalom and 10th overall, and Daniel Marshal placed 25th in Giant Slalom and 13th overall. All of these skiers should be extremely proud of the impact they have had on Port Credit Skiing.

VARSITY WRESTLING

Throughout the years, the Port Credit wrestling team has shown constant success. 2008 was no exception. The team was comprised of experienced, committed wrestlers who showed their dedication to the sport by practicing and competing with the school team as well as their own club teams. The team was full of spirit, with everyone always ready to give it their all on the mat. A Port Credit wrestler always has to have a hard work mentality, taking it one point at a time and using simple, yet effective moves to win the match. Big thanks go out to the coaches Mr. Tutty and Ms. Proctor, who took the time to make it an excellent year for PCSS wrestlers.

Having been part of the Port Credit Rugby team for four years, I can honestly say that each year the team has gotten better and stronger. With the great coaching and extensive knowledge of the game from Mrs. Proctor and Mr. Stewart we ran our way to two ROPSSAA wins. With hard work and dedication from the new players, veterans, and coaches we hope to once again go all the way this year! We are all very excited for the upcoming season, and I know the team and I are extremely proud to have the opportunity to be a part of such a fantastic program and represent PCSS WARRIORS RUGBY!

Port Credit is our second home. Friends, dreams and love are found here. This place is the origin of clichés, and originality. Dreams are formed, knowledge is gained. LEADERSHIP

The leadership classes (2AL and 4AL) have been a tradition here at Port Credit for quite some time. This year's class consisted of a bunch of hard-working, dedicated, and responsible students, fit to endure the challenging tasks this course has to offer. From sleeping in quinces, to fashion shows, to hiking at Rattle Snake Point, the students have conquered everything in their path. They have learned about hypothermia, leadership skills, and even different animal calls, and they have helped minor officiate all sports from basketball, to lacrosse. The students have demonstrated their leadership skills to a great extent and have even been able to show off some of their cooking skills. They have certainly proved themselves worthy, and have made 2008 a year to remember.

PHYSICAL EDUCATION

The Port Credit Physical Education department is the place where warrior spirit was born. Many long-time teachers, as well as new faces, keep our warrior spirit alive, be it in gym class or coaching school teams. Mr. Dyce, Ms. Proctor, Ms. Hashimoto, Mr. Forde, Ms. Davis and Mr. Tutty, all lend their background knowledge and leadership to the eager Phys. Ed. Students. With courses like Leadership and Recreational Gym, the Phys. Ed. Department gets to take various trips throughout the year, such as the Algonquin trip, Wanakita winter trip, and of course the always stimulating trips to the bowling alley.

DRAMA

The drama course at Port Credit differs greatly from every other class in the school. Students are encouraged to be social and outgoing during class, while participating in various dramatic exercises led by the always-friendly Ms. Postma. Often in groups, young thespians organize, write, and perform entire plays in front of their peers using the large drama room equipped with costumes, props, and full stage lighting. Aside from being a great way to make friends, this class allows shy students to break out of their shell and unleash their inner actor/actress.

RECYCLING TEAM

The recycling team is comprised of the dedicated group of environmentalists in Mrs. Kuyper's Grade 10 English class. The club's main purpose is to manage the multitude of gray and blue boxes situated in our hallways, offices, classrooms, lounges and our cafeteria. The group is also in charge of encouraging new teachers to utilize recycling bins in their classroom. The young students relish the opportunity to help our environment, realizing it's a dirty job but someone's gotta do it.

VIDEO GAMES CLUB

Room 314 becomes a haven for game enthusiasts when the Video Game Club gathers at lunchtimes. The club provides the members with a place to forget about academics for an hour and engage in a relaxing game of DDR.

SCI-TECH COUNCIL

After a few short years of existence, the Sci-tech program has come into its own. After pain staking renovations and much drama, the Sci-tech council has fully integrated itself into Port Credit Secondary School. Ms. Courtin has put many hours into establishing PC as the regional Science and Technology school, and the benefits are shown throughout. As the newest council to Port Credit, Sci-tech is making its mark with fundraisers and various field trips. Over the next few years they are sure to create some memorable events that might match even the Sears Festival.

STAGE CREW

Stage Crew is a group of underappreciated, hard working students that keep the school running like clockwork. From lights, to camera, to action, Stage Crew works behind the scenes to make sure the shows run smoothly. Sean Lukas and James Bitter have been the brains behind every assembly, music show, or master lunch with the help of a few other dedicated individuals. The auditorium has become their "home away from home" according to Sean, as the group spends school hours and lunches preparing for the next show. Without the hard work of the Stage Crew, Port Credit would surely not be able to host all of the entertaining and educational presentations that we enjoy on a regular basis.

JUNIOR JITTERS

You walk into the familiar front foyer on the first day and are shocked at how tiny the new Grade 9 students are. Congratulations, you're in Grade 11. Once students begin their eleventh year of schooling, they assume a leadership role in the school for the first time since eighth grade. You are only forced to take one Math and one English course while every other course is your own choice. Perhaps the biggest perk of being a senior student at Port Credit is the availability of a spare period. This extra period (primarily used for studying) can occasionally be a blissful hour and fifteen minutes in which you can do whatever you want. Spare is further enhanced once the Grade 11 student gets his/her G2 license and is able to bring the car to school. For the first time in your life you have a high degree of freedom. However, with great freedom comes great responsibility; you students are constantly stressing over your marks because for the first time in your life, you're trying to gain more than your parents' favour. Also the burden of choosing your career path is placed on your shoulders in January, when courses are chosen for next year that will act as prerequisites for your university of choice. Choose carefully.

HAPPY VALENTINE'S DAY

VOW OF SILENCE

SHHHHH!

Port Credit has many conscientious, caring students that make a strong effort to change the world for the better. The Global Groundwork club organized a vow of silence at the beginning of March with the intention of raising awareness and funds for children who are unable to voice they're opinions or problems. Participants were asked to gather people to financially sponsor them as they spent 24 silent hours over the course of two days. The funds that were raised by PCSS students were sent to Sierra Leone to build a school through the Free The Children foundation. Port Credit students contributed greatly to bettering the lives of children worldwide, while gaining an individual appreciation for the difficulties children face every day.

THE FLOOD

GRAB YOUR LAPTOPS!

Thursday, February 28th was one of the coldest, most bitter days of the year. With the temperature easily surpassing double digits on the wrong side of 0, surely some students decided that the warmth of bed was far more inviting than the cold walk to school. These students missed an eventful day at PCSS. Late during first period, several pipes above the English and Social Science hallways burst, soaking hundreds of books, assignments, and teacher's belongings. The roof in the English office had collapsed, water was accumulating all over the floor, and there were whispers of electrical problems amongst curious students. Luckily, Mr. Bennett readied his Ark, grabbed two of every student, and was able to herd them down to the safety of the auditorium. In the end the custodial staff did an outstanding job cleaning up the mess, but the Great Flood certainly will remain in the memory of those who experienced the wrath of a frigid, Canadian February.

SEARS FESTIVAL

The Sears Festival is an annual event in which Port Credit exhibits the continued excellence of their drama program. This year the students produced their version of the play Emotional Baggage by Lindsay Price. The play takes place in a train station with six individuals revealing their past issues. A departure from traditional high school plays, Emotional Baggage contains no dialogue at all. It instead focuses on non-verbal story-telling through mask and movement, enhancing the importance of the actors' body language and facial expressions. The students, led by Ms. Postma, perfected this difficult task delivering an inspired performance that garnered an excellent response from the judges as well as the crowd. Port Credit received the Award for Excellence for Best Ensemble Performance after the show. The mark of good acting is the ability to adapt to different, challenging performing styles. During their 30 minute performance, Port Credit proved themselves to be an extremely talented group of young actors.

LONDON TRIP

IN LONDON TOWN

On Wednesday March 5, at the cusp of a wicked snow storm, Kristina Hogan, Lauren Lowe, Sarah Anthony, Therese Kuypers, and Mike Higgins, left Toronto International Airport for London, England, with twenty-eight students. We stayed for a full week, and returned the following Wednesday, all gentrified and traveled out, spilling into the waiting and nervous arms of the parents. We arrived, after a loud and boisterous flight (the loudest I've ever been on), at Heathrow airport in the early morning and immediately met up with our fab tour director, Kitty Anderson – I'm not kidding – who looked just like Uma Thurman – I'm not kidding again. We were whisked off to our hotel in Lambeth North, on the south side of the Thames, given out Tube passes for the week, and started our journey. We traveled by Tube all over the city – to Trafalgar Square to see the monstrously high (he probably could see all the way to France) statue of Lord Nelson, great man of the Queen's navy and defeater of Napoleon's navy. We walked, and walked and walked – to Covent garden, Piccadilly, The Strand, through Chelsea, Kensington, and Hyde Park. We took a bus tour through the greater London area and saw the Tower Bridge, London Bridge, parliament and Big Ben, Buckingham and St. James gardens. We ate Indian, Chinese, English, and fusion Japanese. We spent an afternoon in Windsor castle and saw the room where Prince Harry had his twenty-first birthday bash. We went to the tower of London and saw instruments of military might, and read graffiti of doomed prisoners, written five hundred years ago. We saw modern art at the Tate, old art at the National Gallery, and dinosaurs at the Museum of Natural History. Sean climbed the stairs of St. Paul's Cathedral, and some saw the splendour of Westminster Abbey and the National Military Museum. And we ate more. After all the adventure and traveling, we ended our perfect week in the dusky evening on the old east end of London proper to take in the infamous Jack the Ripper tour. No signs of vast cultural projects or museums here. The tour took us to the streets of Victorian London, when the east end swam in smog so thick they called it pea soup, and the only people walking about at night were the old sailors and the prostitutes . . . and of course Jack. We returned to our hotel, made sure our bags were packed, and woke up at four a.m. to catch our flight back to T.O. Bloody good.

GIRLS CRICKET

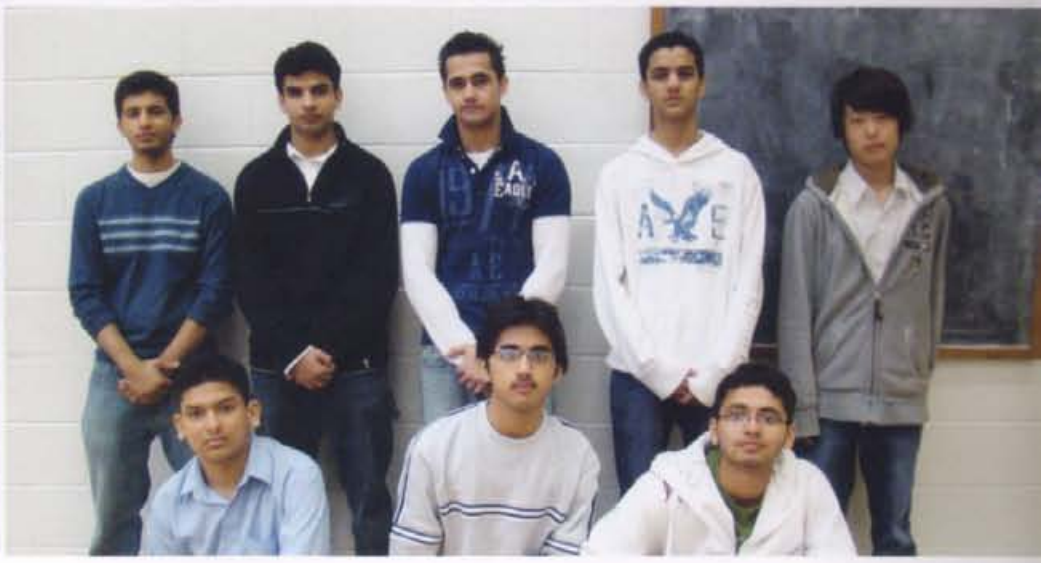
Cricket is a fairly new sport that has been recognized by ROPSSAA. The unique sport of cricket draws skills from many other sports including baseball, soccer and field hockey. The Port Credit Girls Cricket team has had an amazing record winning the last two ROPSSAA championships and has been working hard in hopes of winning a third. Led by coaches Mr. Shaikh and Ms. Connor, their extensive knowledge of the sport has allowed for the team to grow into fierce competitors. They have showed tremendous dedication and determination as they perfect their skills for this season.

- Hailey Roll

Port Credit has gained a great respect among other high schools for the continued excellence of its cricket program. On game day, the gymnasium becomes littered with cricket fans from many different nations, eagerly awaiting another Warriors victory. Although the sport doesn't garner a huge amount of attention in Canada, in countries like Australia, Trinidad, England, Pakistan and many others, cricket is one of the most popular sports. The Junior and Senior boys, mentored by Mr. Shaikh and Mr. Burns, show their passion for the sport every time they step onto the pitch.

- Kevin Smith

BOYS CRICKET



The Port Credit Boys Soccer team has been very successful over the past few years. A team filled with dedicated, hard-working, and talented players along side of an excellent coach has been their secret to success. Mr. Senkowski led the team to their first ROPSSA win last year and they are currently looking to build on their current success. The team has been working hard together and show tremendous potential to make it a second ROPPSSA win in a row. Keep it up PC!

- Lynsay Turner

VARSITY BOYS SOCCER

GIRLS VARSITY SOCCER

The Port Credit Varsity Girls Soccer team proved to be one of the most competitive sports teams that PCSS has ever put on the field, with 45 girls vying for a spot on the 18 girl roster. Mrs. Boston and Mr. Kolenko were responsible for making the difficult cuts, as well as preparing the team for the ROPSSAA and OFSAA tournaments. The team had a good mix of junior and senior students, led by grade 12 captain Megan Mckinnon who was brimming with confidence about the upcoming year. "This is the best team I've seen in 4 years of PC soccer. We've got a special group of girls who give us a chance to win every time we step out on the field." The team will also compete in the prestigious Lester B. Pearson Invitational tournament, with title aspirations running strong through the team.

- Kevin Smith

COMMUNICATIONS TECHNOLOGY

Comm. Tech. is one of the most popular and relevant courses offered at PCSS. With employers always looking for people who are technologically savvy, Communications Technology gives students an advantage as soon as Grade 10. Mr. Mason teaches grades 10-12 in the state-of-the-art communications studio in room 128. The studio includes a photography studio, a gargantuan audio mixing board, a soundproof room, and a fully functional television studio. All of these components allow students to broadcast news throughout the school, and teaches students how to operate a variety of equipment such as, camera, switchers, VTR's, and green screens. Comm. Tech. gives students an opportunity to perhaps find an area of interest to specialize in as a possible career choice.

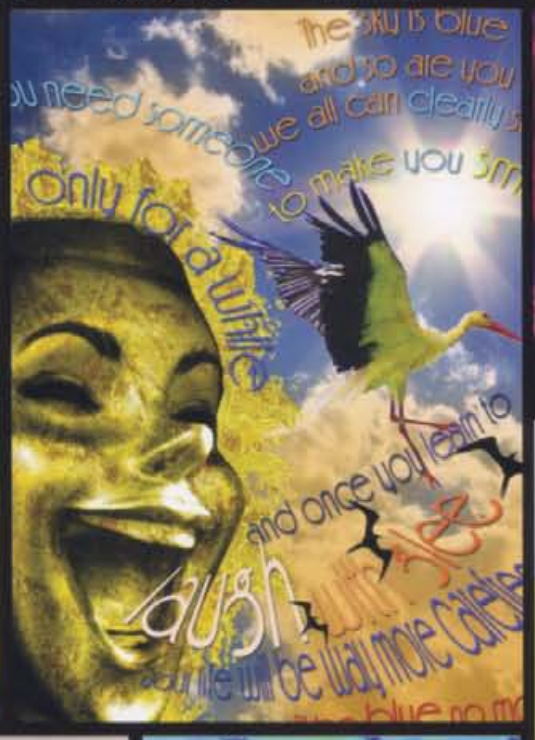
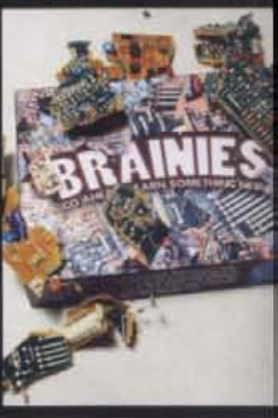
ARTS

Film Arts is a class where students study the unblinking eye of the camera, and its effects on the people who watch it. Grade 11 and 12 students are required to create original ideas and apply them to their own short movies, documentaries, and music videos. With the study of non-narritive films like "Koyaanisqatsi," and documentaries like "Notebooks on Cities and Clothes." The film students are able to understand the power of an image and originality in the film world today. With Mr. Calimente's style of "not letting the cat out of the bag", he teaches his students to appreciate all types of films, and to think critically while watching them.

-Lukas Sluzar

Media arts

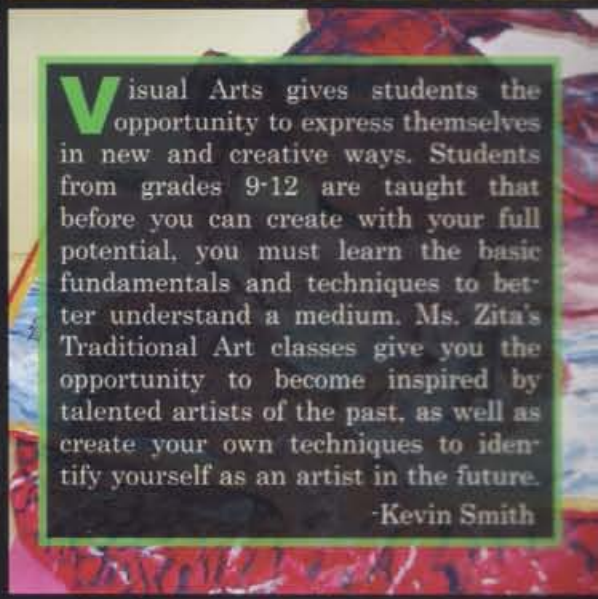




Over the course of three years, Media Arts students are taught how to master both Adobe Photoshop and Illustrator, but the course goes far beyond that. Ms. Urquhart changes the curriculum regularly to keep students interested and get their creative juices flowing. Of course there is also an art history portion of the course for students to find inspiration. After the first year, students branch off from the computer and explore multimedia projects, such as creating an Artist's Book. In grade eleven students work primarily in illustrator, and are given a wider range of projects. In grade twelve, students choose a theme and are challenged creatively to stay with it for the entire year. Students come away from this course with a vast understanding of graphic design, and punctuality.

- Christian Quaresma

VISUAL ARTS



Visual Arts gives students the opportunity to express themselves in new and creative ways. Students from grades 9-12 are taught that before you can create with your full potential, you must learn the basic fundamentals and techniques to better understand a medium. Ms. Zita's Traditional Art classes give you the opportunity to become inspired by talented artists of the past, as well as create your own techniques to identify yourself as an artist in the future.

-Kevin Smith

MATH CLUB

The 2007-2008 Math Club was run by Ms. Roberts. Students from grades 9 to 12 would meet in room 313 every Tuesday, where they would all take turns solving different math equations. The basic point of this club was to broaden students horizons on math and prove that it isn't really that hard. The club was comprised of enthusiastic math students who were eager to learn more about different types of math, whether it would be geometrical, trigonometrical or algebraical. These dedicated students will surely become the engineers and rocket scentists of the future.

- Jessica Hill

FORMAL COMMITTEE

For most high school students, Prom is the final good memory before the graduates move on to bigger and better things. The Grade 12s expect this evening to be one of the best nights of their lives. The Formal Committee is responsible for making Prom live up to these lofty expectations. The committee is in charge of planning the theme, booking the venue and entertainment, organizing food, and ensuring that everyone has a memorable evening. The committee works diligently throughout the year to raise money by organizing successful fund raisers such as the "Duct Tape your teacher to the Wall" day. Surely, Prom will be a night to remember.

- Kevin Smith

DUCT TAPED TEACHERS

On Friday, December 14th, the Formal Committee held the year's most widely attended fund raiser. Many of our school's most respected teachers, as well as our principal, were immobilized against the cafeteria wall by a flurry of Duct tape strands. These strands were purchased for $1 each by eager students, intent on repaying their teachers for the recently handed out report cards. The fund raiser, in its second year of existence, had a full cafeteria of students and teachers on hand to watch the removal of the chairs beneath the teachers' feet at the end of the lunch hour. With its enormous popularity, the "Duct Tape Your Teacher to the Wall" fund raiser is sure to fund Proms, as well as keep teachers in sticky situations, for years to come.

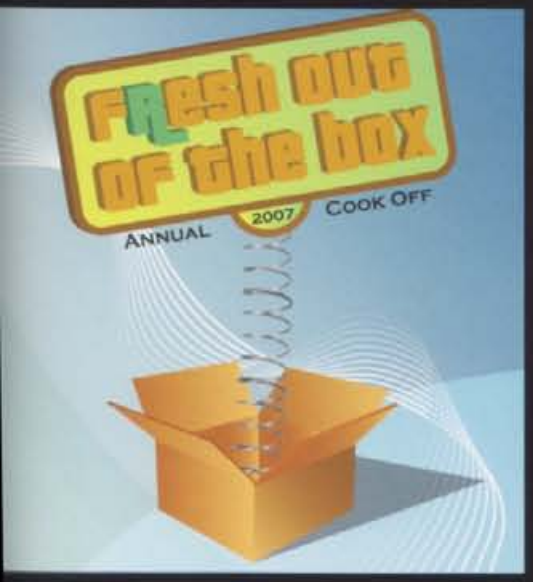
ATHLETIC COUNCIL

Everyone has certain experiences they will always remember when they look back on high school. The members of P.C athletic council will remember the amazing time they had getting involved in the school community, and giving their peers some of the best events of the year. We -the Athletic Council- helped keep the Warrior spirit alive at Port Credit this year, by organizing such events as the Halloween 'Sadie Hawkins' dance, the Terry Fox Day activities, the Warrior Spirit wear clothing sales, the Christmas candy grams, the Tobacco awareness week, and the Warrior athletic banquet which was held at the end of the year. We also helped raise money for Port Credit's various sports teams. The money we raised went towards sending our teams to many competitive tournaments, and towards helping purchase new equipment and team uniforms. The Athletic Council's goal for the 2007/2008 year was to maintain our strong tradition of elite athletic programs and events, we were able to reach our goal by working hard and by showing tremendous dedication. Most importantly, we owe a great deal of gratitude to our teacher sponsors Ms. Hashimoto, Ms. Proctor, and Ms. Mckenzie, who helped and supported us throughout the year. And thanks to our executives who were always there with new ideas and support: Leah Barbaro our Vice-President, Alison Smith our secretary, Lynsay Turner and Jess Hill our publicity representatives, Cassandra Chiu our slideshow representative, Alexis Elliot, Alex Pirvulescu and Kaitlyn our fundraising representatives, and Sarah Decaire our intramural representative. Also a very special thanks to the general members, you guys are the future of the athletic council! It is with the support and dedication of these people that we made this year an amazing one for Port Credit S.S. Remember to keep that warrior spirit alive P.C!

- Caileigh Simpson
Athletic Council President 2008

VISUAL ARTS COUNCIL



The Port Credit Visual Arts council is a group of extremely creative students who help add an artistic influence to our school events. Members of the Art Council annually volunteer their time to face paint during the Terry Fox run, and to complete display boards for events such as, the Remembrance Day assembly. With the guidance of Ms. Zita, the Art Council has offered their assistance to other councils, teams, and schools. This year the council has made decorations for the music concerts, designed posters for various events, and helped with face painting at other schools.

- Hailey Pringle
Visual Arts Council President 2008

ENGLISH

The English Department teaches its students that comprehension and contemplation are much more important than absorption when it comes to the English language. Students study a wide variety of literature throughout the four years of high school including classics like Shakespeare and Orwell, as well as new authors like Barker and Coupland. Senior English students are given the opportunity to take specialty classes like Writer's Craft and English Literature that prepare students for a post secondary education in the arts. Mrs. Kuypers, Ms. Browne, Ms. Lowe, Ms. Hogan, Mr. Bennett, Ms. Anthony, Ms Brodie, and Mr. Cowan give students Grade 9-12 the necessary skills to become proficient writers and cultured readers.

- Kevin Smith

SOCIAL SCIENCE

Social Sciences offer a unique insight into the human mind and a great understanding of the human condition. Courses like I.S.A.P (Introduction to Sociology, Anthropology and Psychology), Philosophy, and World Issues present a look into the human psyche while courses like Ancient History, World Religions, and Law examine case studies of past civilizations and icons. Mr. Cossette, Mr. N. Johnston, Mr. Montgomery, Ms. Meyer, Ms. Mcdermid, Ms. Bell, Ms. Gill, Ms Janisik, Ms. Ivic and Mr. Calimente all work tirelessly to examine all facets of human existence and attempt to answer the critical question "why?".

"An unexamined life in not worth living" - Socrates

- Kevin Smith

SECRETARIES

The Secretaries at Port Credit are the backbone to the running of the school. If you skip a class, they will know unless you have a note of course. They always keep Ms. Courtin up to date on the status of the building, as well as all other administrative aspects. With a constant smile on their faces, our dedicated secretaries help faculty and students with daily tasks. There is no job too big for Ms. Woods, Ms. Osterbauer and Ms. Isojima.

- Kirk Magdy

GUIDANCE

High school is a very stressful time in one's life, full of questions that have no definite answers. The Port Credit Guidance department does an admirable job helping our inquisitive students get through these four hectic years. Mr. Tobias, Ms. Boston, Ms. Fullerton, and Ms. Preston are constantly bombarded with course conflicts, school incidents, and university questions. With the change to the semester system, our counselors twice had to deal with a tidal wave of students trying to change courses at the beginning of each semester. Also, the senior students are constantly in and out of the guidance office with a never-ending flow of spastic concerns and impossible questions about post-secondary education. Port Credit's guidance counselors deal with hundreds of issues a day, working on each one individually, to keep our school running and our students sane.

Well, we made it. This ending to four amazing years at Port Credit is just the beginning of a brighter future. I can honestly say that the years went by in a flash and if I could go back I wouldn't change a thing. In whatever you do and where ever you go - follow your heart.

"What lies behind you and what lies before you are tiny matters compared to what lies within you."
-Ralph Waldo Emerson

Newsha Djamshidian

My only wish is to remember. I hope in 50 years, when I'm wrinkled and gray, I'll be able to reach for my stash of photos and reminisce over my high school experience. I'll laugh as I relive the good times we've had [QCITY, kelso, 4al, +] and tear as I remember the people who made every second count. Girls, never stop being crazy. Mom, I wouldn't be here w/o you. Grads, make me proud. Just remember - "wherever you go, go with all your heart".

Erin Eggleton

J.K. Rowling once said, "it is our choices ... that show what we truly are, far more than our abilities". If there is one thing that I learned from Port Credit, it is to never change for anyone and to always think for myself. My own thoughts about the four years? Bring on university! :)

– "You like licking dark spots?" ... "No, I like Linkin' Park songs!" ... "Oh."

Harry Fludd

OMG. the past 35 years have gone by way 2 fast! I remember when Craigie Orchards was a real one,good times. The old smoking area behind the auditorium was awesome back in the day! But the best parties were on the 4th floor WOO! I finally got my last math credit from Mr. George 35 and out. Oh well the school has so many rules now - equal opportunity and such. I'd have a final party but im to old to drink much.Good Luck everyone and plz dont stay as long as i did! PEACE BROS!

Hey PC! High school is finally over! Always remember that "The more you like yourself, the less you are like anyone else, which makes you unique." Best Wishes PCSS. Love ya Mommy, Daddy, Kelly and Mikey!

It's finally over. 4 years to last a lifetime. All my love to family and friends for keeping me afloat and (reasonably) sane. You've helped shape who I am now and who I will continue to strive to be. We've made it through the clichés and the unexpected, now we move onto new beginnings! Keep love in your heart, remember to laugh even in the worst of times, and venture into the unknown, for audaces fortuna iuvat. Goodbye high school, hello world!

Jessica Hill

Who would've thought that 4 years ago, graduating wasn't even a word in my vocabulary and now it's finally here. Mom, thanks for all the support. To all my ladies and gents, you kept me sane and made these 4 years amazing (les trois). QUEBECOIS – I'd go back in a second. Rugby girls & Proctor, I promise never to get put in the back of an ambulance again. "ROPSSAA CHAMPS OF 07" Congrats grads of 08, WE FINALLY DID IT! xo jebb

Great ideas are a minority in the brain of a genius. Spread the ideas of education and open your world to the uneducated and you will create wealth for the poor. Adapt to your problems create your future the road to enlightenment awaits at the gates of perfection, go get greeted and welcome into your new home. Congratulations class of 08! Time produces a feeling like that felt at the borderline of sleeping & waking, when my impatient efforts to go back to sleep without awakening from a happy dream, only make the recapture of the dream seem all the more impossible. I discovered how my heart now interrupted by the sun, was being stirred by the uneasy awakening, that was intruding upon my dream, by the inexperienced potential, of my dream, seen at the threshold of consciousness.

Susan Kwiecien

If you feel like you're in control, clearly you're not going fast enough.

Thanks for the fun, the loud and pointless (but funny) arguments, and my new inability to watch serious movies without laughing. The Pimpernel is wicked, the Phantom is addictive, and our four years are up. Groovy.

High School has been an experience. It's had it's ups and downs, like everything else in life. If nothing else, I leave with some of the best memories of my life, and some of the best friends anyone could ever have. Things that I want to do before I turn sixty:

1. Scuba dive in the Great Barrier Reef
2. Go on a real life African photo safari
3. Sing in the rain and dance in the streets
4. Watch a volcano erupt
5. Laugh so hard, and so often, that I develop wrinkles before my time

"Miss. Lippy, the part of the story that don't like, is that the boy stops looking for his dog after an hour. he just sits on his porch like a goon, he didn't put up posters or anything. That boys gotta think "You got a pet, you got a responsibility!" You can't just look for an hour and call it quits. So you get your ass out there and you find that @"%#ing dog!"

High school has been the time to take risks, make mistakes, learn a little and party hard. In the end coming out with an idea of who you are and who you want to become. YEARBOOK STAFF

Well, we have reached the end of the book and it couldn't have come any sooner. Hopefully we didn't offend too many people or miss too many names, but for everyone that was dissatisfied with the book, we offer an apology with the sentiment that we did the best we could with the small staff that we had. We would like to extend one final thank you to Paul Englert, who was always on top of things and helped us in countless ways throughout the year. Good luck yearbook staff '09!
